Dear Director/Coordinator of Campus Child Care Services:

As you know, your institution was a recent Child Care Access Means Parents in School (CCAMPIS) grantee. The U.S. Department of Education is now sponsoring a study to learn more about the child care services that colleges and universities provide to low-income postsecondary students. The study includes a survey that collects information via the Web about the child care services and the postsecondary students who use those services. Mathematica Policy Research, Inc. (MPR), is conducting the study.

We hope you will participate in this important study. The information you provide will help the U.S. Department of Education improve its CCAMPIS program, which is designed to support the participation of low-income parents in postsecondary education by offering campus-based child care services.

Responses to this data collection will be used only for statistical purposes. The reports prepared for this study will summarize findings across the sample and will not associate responses with a specific institution or individual. We will not provide information that identifies you or your institution to anyone outside the study team, except as required by law. Further, the information collected will not affect your institution's ability to apply for future CCAMPIS grants.

In about a week, MPR will send you an email that provides a hyperlink for accessing the Child Care Survey of Postsecondary Institutions Web site and instructions for completing the survey. In addition, since data may be needed from another office within your institution, we will provide links to tools that will allow you to make your data requests in a quick and efficient manner. If you have any questions before then, please call MPR's help desk (toll-free) at 1-800-535-0283, or send an email to ChildCareSurveySupport@mathematica-mpr.com.

We look forward to your participation. Thank you very much for your assistance.

Sincerely,

THE CHILD CARE SURVEY OF POSTSECONDARY INSTITUTIONS
THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

What is the Child Care Survey of Post Secondary Institutions?

The purpose of the Child Care Survey is to collect information on the child care services provided by postsecondary institutions to low-income students with young children. Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education, the survey is designed to be completed by the person at the institution who is most familiar with these services.

Why should my institution participate in the Child Care Survey?

Your participation is very important because it will help the U.S. Department of Education to understand how it can best support your institution's efforts to help low-income students with young children complete their college education.

How was my institution selected to participate?

Some institutions were selected because they recently received a grant from the U.S. Department of Education to support the child care services they provide to low-income students. Other institutions were selected through a scientific process from the institutions listed in the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS).

Will information be kept private?

Yes. Responses to this data collection will be used only for statistical purposes. The reports prepared for this study will summarize findings across the sample and will not associate responses with a specific institution or individual. We will not provide information that identifies you or your institution to anyone outside the study team, except as required by law.

Who is conducting the survey?

Mathematica Policy Research, Inc. (MPR), is conducting the survey on behalf of the U.S. Department of Education. MPR is a private company that has been doing research in education for nearly 40 years. Its main offices are in Washington, DC, and Princeton, New Jersey.

Who is sponsoring the study?

The study is being sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education's Policy and Program Studies Service.
