An Assessment of the International Visitor Leadership Program

International Visitor Exchange Experience Survey

Introduction

The U.S. Department of State is conducting an evaluation of the International Visitor Leadership Program (IVLP), formerly known as the International Visitor Program (or IV Program). You have been selected to participate in the evaluation because of your participation in the IVLP in 2002. This survey instrument is made up of questions that are designed to provide specific information about your post-program activities and achievements and other changes you have experienced since your IVLP visit to the United States.

We would greatly appreciate your completion of this survey as part of the evaluation. Your feedback is very important to us because it will help the U.S. Department of State, and the U.S. Embassy in your country, to better understand the value of the IVLP to its participants. In addition, it will make program improvements to ensure the program's effectiveness for future participants.

Your completion of this survey is voluntary. Your responses will be completely confidential and aggregated with those of all other International Visitor alumni respondents of this survey. Some of your written comments may be included in the final report of this assessment. If your comments are included in the final report, they will not be attributed to you by name, but may include a reference to your country and profession (e.g., "a journalist from Indonesia stated.....").

Thank you in advance for taking the time to complete this survey. We expect the completion time to be approximately one hour. In order to verify this estimate, we will ask you at the end of the survey to record the actual completion time.

Thank you for your participation.

This survey will cover the following topics:

- Section A – Background Information
- Section B – Professional, Institutional and Personal Contacts
- Section C – Views of the United States and Americans
- Section D – Professional and Personal Impact of Your IVLP Exchange Experience
