[Legal citations]

Disclosure of Estimated Burden

The estimated average burden associated with this information collection is 10 hours per respondent. Burden estimates include the time for reviewing instructions, gathering and maintaining data in the required form, and completing the information collection, but exclude the time for compiling and maintaining business records in the normal course of a respondent's activities. A Federal agency may not conduct or sponsor, and an organization (or a person) is not required to respond to a collection of information, unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number. Comments concerning the accuracy of this burden estimate and suggestions for reducing this burden should be directed to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, D.C. 20503, and to [Agency name and address]

Survey of Information Sharing Practices with Affiliates

Introduction

In Section 214(e) of the Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act (FACT Act, Pub. L. 108-159, 117 Stat. 1952),<sup>1</sup> Congress required selected federal agencies<sup>2</sup> to conduct regular studies of the consumer information sharing practices of financial institutions and other persons that are creditors or users of consumer reports with their affiliates.

Your response, along with those from other entities being surveyed, will be aggregated and analyzed by the Agencies and will become the basis of an interagency report to the Congress. The report will not include names of, or otherwise identify, individual respondents. The interagency report will be available at: [www.federalreserve.gov/boarddocs/rptcongress].

Instructions

General. When responding to survey questions, please mark the answers that apply to you. Your responses should reflect your information sharing practices with affiliates.

In many questions, there is space for you to provide a short explanation or alternative answer from the ones listed. To the extent possible, the Agencies will incorporate any supplemental information received from respondents (without attribution) within the report that the Agencies prepare for Congress. The Agencies encourage you to submit supplemental descriptive information about the purposes for which you share information with your affiliates.

<sup>1</sup> In general, the FACT Act amends the Fair Credit Reporting Act to enhance the ability of consumers to combat identity theft, increase the accuracy of consumer reports and allow consumers to exercise greater control regarding the type and amount of marketing solicitations they receive. To promote increasingly efficient national credit markets, the FACT Act also establishes uniform national standards in key areas of regulation regarding consumer report information. Finally, the FACT Act requires a number of studies to be conducted, including the Section 214(e) study on information sharing practices.

<sup>2</sup> The federal agencies involved in the study are: Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Federal Trade Commission, National Credit Union Administration, Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, and Office of Thrift Supervision (Agencies).

Throughout this survey, the terms “you” and “we” refer to the entity (e.g., commercial bank, savings institution, credit union, or other business) that is responding to the survey. Please respond to the extent possible about your entity’s information sharing with affiliates. Do not respond about such sharing and receiving activities on a combined basis for you, your affiliates, and your corporate holding company (if applicable). Examples of sharing include consumer information that is:

- put in a common database to which your affiliates have access
- used jointly by you and your affiliate(s)
- used in certain centralized functions within an organization, such as mortgage underwriting
- collected from on-line activities and accessible to affiliates
- provided to one affiliate which, in turn, provides the same consumer information to another.

The survey seeks information on your current information sharing practices with affiliates. Therefore, please provide responses for such practices that have taken place during the past 12 months. If your practices have changed during that time due to a significant event such as a merger, please provide responses regarding your practices as they exist today.

The shaded boxes found between survey questions provide information regarding the relevant statutory requirement from Section 214(e) of the FACT Act. The statutory requirements contained in these boxes form the basis for the survey questions that follow.

Confidentiality. Where possible, the Agencies will aggregate data from respondents for use in the report to the Congress. The report will not include names of respondents. If a member of the public requests copies of the survey responses, the Agencies would consider each request and determine whether the information is exempt from public release under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA).

Appendix A

Glossary

The Agencies are providing the definitions in this glossary to help respondents generally to understand terms used in the survey. These may not be legal definitions and in some cases they may differ from the exact definition of the same term under federal or state law.

Affiliate

Any company related by common ownership or common corporate control with another company. An affiliate includes an operating subsidiary of a bank or a savings association or a credit union service organization controlled by a federal credit union.

Consumer

An individual.

Consumer information

Any record about an individual, whether in paper, electronic, or other form, that is a consumer report or is derived from a consumer report and that is maintained or otherwise possessed by or on behalf of an entity for a business purpose. Consumer information would also include transaction or experience information. The term includes a compilation of such records; it does not include any record that does not identify an individual.

Consumer report

Any written, oral, or other communication of any information by a consumer reporting agency bearing on a consumer's credit worthiness, credit standing, credit capacity, character, general reputation, personal characteristics, or mode of living that is used or expected to be used or collected in whole or in part for the purpose of serving as a factor in establishing the consumer's eligibility for: (1) credit or insurance to be used primarily for personal, family, or household purposes; (2) employment purposes; or (3) any other purpose authorized under section 604 of the Fair Credit Reporting Act. A report containing information solely as to transactions or experiences between the consumer and the person making the report is classified as transaction or experience information, and is not a consumer report. In this survey, the phrase "consumer report information" refers to information obtained or derived from a consumer report.

Employment purposes

Evaluating an individual for hiring or evaluating an existing employee for promotion, reassignment, or termination of employment.

General publication

For the purposes of this survey, general publication includes:

- federal, state, or local government records
- widely distributed media (e.g., telephone books or newspapers)
- disclosures to the general public that are required to be made by federal, state or local law.

Sharing information for purposes of general publication does not include furnishing information to a consumer reporting agency.

Opt-in

This term describes the prior permission granted by a consumer (an “opt-in”) before you can share certain consumer information with an affiliate.

Opt-out

This term describes a consumer’s opportunity to instruct you not to share certain consumer information with an affiliate (an “opt-out”). If a consumer does not opt out, you may share information with an affiliate.

Sharing

For purposes of this survey, examples of sharing include consumer information that is:

- put in a common database to which your affiliates have access
- used jointly by you and your affiliate(s)
- used in certain centralized functions within an organization, such as mortgage underwriting
- collected from on-line banking activities and accessible to affiliates
- provided to one affiliate which, in turn, provides the same consumer information to another

Transaction or Experience Information (T or E)

For purposes of this survey, examples of transaction or experience information include:

- balance information on an account a consumer has at an institution
- payment history by a consumer on a loan at an institution
- classifications or characterizations of a consumer by an institution based on a consumer’s history with an account at the institution (e.g., use of term “slow pay” to describe a consumer’s payment history on a loan).
