General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form W-7A to apply for an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) adoption taxpayer identification number (ATIN) for a child who is placed in your home for purposes of legal adoption. However, do not use Form W-7A if you will be able to obtain a social security number (SSN) for the child in time to file your tax return. Also, do not use Form W-7A if the child is not a U.S. citizen or resident.

What Is an ATIN

An ATIN is a temporary nine-digit number issued by the IRS to individuals who are in the process of legally adopting a U.S. citizen or resident child but who cannot get an SSN for that child in time to file their tax return.

You may be able to use an ATIN on your tax return to take the following tax benefits based on the child.

- Dependency exemption. See Pub. 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information.
- Credit for child and dependent care expenses. See Pub. 503, Child and Dependent Care Expenses.
- Adoption credit. See Instructions for Form 8839, Qualified Adoption Expenses.
- Child tax credit. See Pub. 972, Child Tax Credit.

However, you cannot use an ATIN to claim the earned income credit (EIC). When the adoption is final and the child has an SSN, you can file an amended return for an earlier year if you could have claimed the EIC in the earlier year except for the fact that the child did not have an SSN. Use Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, and Schedule EIC, Earned Income Credit.

How Long To Use an ATIN

An ATIN issued to you for your adoptive child will expire 2 years from the date it is issued. You will receive a notice from the IRS 6 months before the expiration date to remind you that the ATIN will expire. The notice will explain how you can apply for an extension if the adoption will not be final by the expiration date.

After the adoption is final, do not continue using the ATIN. Instead, you must use an SSN. To apply for an SSN for the child, fill in Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, and return it, with the appropriate evidence documents, to the Social Security Administration (SSA). You can get Form SS-5 online at www.socialsecurity.gov, from your local SSA office, or by calling the SSA at 1-800-772-1213. It usually takes about 2 weeks to get an SSN.

If the SSA denies your application for an SSN, contact the IRS to request an extension or reactivation of the ATIN. When you request the extension or reactivation of the ATIN, include the SSA's denial letter or an explanation with your correspondence.

Who Must File

File Form W-7A if all of the following apply.

- You have a child living with you who was placed in your home for legal adoption by an authorized placement agency.
- You cannot obtain the child's existing SSN even though you have made a reasonable attempt to obtain it from the birth parents, the placement agency, and other persons.
- You cannot obtain an SSN for the child from the SSA because, for example, the adoption is not final.
- You are eligible to claim the child as a dependent on your tax return.

Do not file Form W-7A if the child is not a U.S. citizen or resident. Instead, apply for an ITIN using Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number.

Foster Children

Do not apply for an ATIN for a foster child who has been placed in your home even if you have filed a petition in court to adopt the foster child or intend to adopt the child. You will not need an ATIN for a foster child because you should be able to obtain the child's SSN from the foster care agency.

How To File

You must complete Form W-7A, sign it, date it, and mail it along with the required attachments (see What To Include With Form W-7A, next) to the address on this page.

What To Include With Form W-7A

You must attach signed and dated documentation to Form W-7A to prove that the child was placed with you for legal adoption (not for foster care) by an authorized placement agency.

In general, one of the following documents will satisfy this requirement.

- A copy of the placement agreement entered into between you and an authorized placement agency.
- A copy of the document signed by a hospital official authorizing the release of a newborn child from the hospital to you for legal adoption.
- A copy of the court order or other court document ordering or approving the placement of a child with you for legal adoption.
- An affidavit signed by the adoption attorney or government official who placed the child with you for legal adoption pursuant to state law.

Address change. If you changed your mailing address after you filed your last return, you should use Form 8822, Change of Address, to notify the IRS of the change. A new address shown on Form W-7A will not update your record. You can get Form 8822 online at www.irs.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

Line 3a. Enter the child's adoptive name as it will appear on your tax return.

An authorized placement agency may include a private adoption agency, a government agency, an adoption attorney, or any other person authorized by state law to place a child for legal adoption. Also, enter the date the child was placed with you.

Signature. Form W-7A must be signed and dated by the adoptive parent(s) applying for the ATIN. If you and another person are adopting this child, that person must also sign and date the application.

Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. The Internal Revenue Code requires that you furnish an identifying number on your tax return if you are claiming certain tax benefits during the process of adopting a U.S. citizen or resident child and cannot get an SSN for that child until the adoption is final. Form W-7A must be used to apply for the identification number, an ATIN. Section 6109 requires that you disclose your taxpayer identification number (SSN). Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, and the District of Columbia for use in administering their tax laws. We may also disclose this information to other countries under a tax treaty, to federal and state agencies to enforce federal nontax criminal laws, or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism. If you do not file the form, you will not be issued an ATIN.

You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by Internal Revenue Code section 6103.

The average time and expenses required to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. For the estimated averages, see the instructions for your income tax return.
