INTRODUCTION

IF YOU ARE SICK OR INJURED, you may be eligible to receive sickness benefits from the Railroad Retirement Board (RRB). This booklet provides information about the requirements for receiving sickness benefits, the amount of benefits payable, and procedures for claiming benefits.

To receive sickness benefits, you must complete and file the enclosed Form SI-1a/b, Application for Sickness Benefits, within 10 days from the first day you want to claim benefits. An application is considered filed on the day it is received by the RRB; if you file late you may lose benefits.

For other qualifications for sickness benefits see "Eligibility Requirements" on page 3.

You may be able to receive unemployment benefits if you are able to work but unemployed. Those benefits are described in a separate booklet, UB-10, Unemployment Benefits for Railroad Employees.

IMPORTANT: If there is no application enclosed with this booklet or you wish to obtain a copy of the booklet UB-10, contact any RRB office, your railroad employer, your labor organization, a union official, or the RRB's Web site at www.rrb.gov.

This booklet contains general information and does not have the effect of law, regulation, or ruling. Certain exceptions, limitations, and special cases are not covered. If you have any questions about sickness or unemployment benefits, contact the nearest office of the RRB. When writing to the RRB, be sure to include your social security number.

Spanish translation booklets concerning railroad sickness and unemployment benefits are available from any office of the RRB.

Tenemos un librete en Espanol que explica los beneficios de los enfermos del ferrocarril. Para obtener una copia, entre en contacto con cualquier oficina de la RRB, su empleador ferroviario, su organizacion laboral, un oficial de un sindicato o otraves del web site RRB: www.rrb.gov.

Qualification Requirements

Base Year – Benefit Year

Only qualified employees can receive benefits under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act. A new benefit year begins every July 1. To qualify for benefits in a benefit year, you must have creditable railroad earnings in the preceding calendar year (base year), counting no more than a certain amount in any month. In addition, a new employee must have railroad service in at least 5 months of his or her first year of work in order to be eligible for benefits in the following benefit year.

The amount of earnings needed to qualify for benefits in a benefit year depends on the monthly compensation base in the base year. An employee is required to have base year earnings of not less than 2-1/2 times the monthly compensation base applicable to months in that base year. As the monthly compensation base increases, the amount of compensation needed to qualify for benefits also increases.

Example

Benefit Year Beginning July 1, 2005

Earnings Needed in Base Year—$2,825.00 in 2004 (2-1/2 x $1,130.00 = $2,825.00). If 2004 was your first year of railroad work, you must also have railroad service in 5 months in 2004.

In this example, $1,130.00 is the monthly compensation base for base year 2004. The monthly compensation base for base year 2005 is $1,150.00.

Contact your local RRB field office if you need information about the monthly compensation base for other years.

Amount and Duration of Benefits

Waiting Period

To satisfy a one-week waiting period requirement, no benefits are payable for your first 7 days of sickness in your first claim in a period of continuing sickness, unless you have already served a waiting period in the benefit year. Benefits are payable for each remaining day of sickness in your first claim. For example, if you claim all 14 days in your first claim, you will be paid benefits for 7 days. If you are eligible and your claims are continuous from one benefit year to another, you generally will serve only one waiting period in your period of continuing sickness.

If you have at least 4 consecutive days of sickness and 5 days of sickness overall, you should file a claim for benefits. Even though no benefits may be payable if the claim is your first claim in the benefit year, your claim must be filed in order to satisfy the waiting period requirement. If you have more than 7 days of sickness in your waiting period claim, benefits will be paid for the number of days of sickness over 7. After your first claim, benefits will be paid for all days over 4 for other claims in the benefit year.

A "period of continuing sickness" means either (1) a period of consecutive days of sickness, whether from one or more causes, or (2) a period of successive days of sickness due to a single cause without interruption of more than 90 consecutive days which are not days of sickness.

Normal Benefits

You can receive normal benefits for as many as 130 days (26 weeks) in a benefit year, but your benefits cannot be more than your base year wages counting not more than a prescribed amount for any month. Benefit rights are exhausted when a benefit year ends (normally June 30) or earlier if benefit payments equal base year creditable earnings.

Example

For purposes of determining maximum normal benefits payable in the general benefit year beginning July 1, 2005, monthly earnings of up to $1,460.00 are counted for months in base year 2004. For base year 2005, the monthly compensation base for maximum benefits is $1,485.00.

Extended Benefits

If you have 10 or more years of service and exhaust your normal sickness benefits, you may be eligible to receive extended benefits for up to 65 days (7 consecutive 14-day claim periods having 10 days payable in each). Also, if you are not qualified for benefits in the current benefit year, but received normal benefits in the previous year, you may still be eligible for extended benefits.

To qualify for extended benefits, you must not have voluntarily retired. Extended sickness benefits are not payable once you attain age 65.

Accelerated Benefits

Under certain special provisions, if you have 10 or more years of service, you can receive benefits before the regular beginning date of a benefit year. To qualify, you must be qualified for the next benefit year, but not the current year. You must also have 14 or more consecutive days of sickness and not have voluntarily retired. Accelerated sickness benefits are not payable once you attain age 65.

Daily Benefit Rate

Your daily benefit rate is 60 percent of the daily rate of pay for your last job in the base year, but not less than $12.70 a day or more than 5 percent of the monthly compensation base.

For example, the monthly compensation base for 2004 is $1,130.00, which results in a maximum daily benefit rate of $56.00 for periods beginning after June 30, 2005. That rate increases to $57.00 for periods beginning after June 30, 2006. The maximum benefit rate is subject to increases under indexing rules reflecting the growth in average national wages. Contact your local RRB field office if you need information about the maximum benefits rates for other periods.

Your daily rate of pay is your straight-time rate of pay including any cost-of-living allowances, but not including overtime or other extra pay.

For mileage employees in train and engine service, the straight-time rate is the rate of pay for the number of miles in a basic workday, depending on occupation and class of service. Earnings for miles run over the number of miles in a basic workday do not count.

Number of Days of Sickness

After you have satisfied the benefit year waiting period requirement, benefits are generally paid for days of sickness over 4 in 14-day claim periods.

Tier I Tax Deductions

Except for benefits paid for on-the-job injuries, sickness benefits are subject to Tier I railroad retirement taxes if paid within 6 months after the month in which you last worked. Tier I tax deductions reduce the amount of benefits payable for a claim.

Eligibility Requirements

To receive sickness benefits you must:

- be unable to work due to sickness, injury, pregnancy, or the birth of a child;
- receive no wages, salary, pay for time lost, vacation pay, holiday pay, military reservist pay, pay under a wage continuation plan, sick pay or other remuneration from railroad or nonrailroad employment for the days you claim benefits. You must report such pay on your claim. However, payments under your own health or accident insurance policy, or group insurance policy, or under a supplemental sickness benefit plan administered by your employer or an insurance company do not prevent the payment of sickness benefits and should not be reported on your claim forms (see the section Sick Pay and Supplemental Sickness Benefits on page 4);

- obtain an application for sickness benefits from your employer, labor organization, or RRB office;
- have your doctor complete the statement of sickness in support of your claim for sickness benefits; and
- complete and file the application for sickness benefits within 10 days of the first day you become sick or injured. You may lose benefits if you file late. An application is considered filed on the day it is received by any office of the RRB.

Medical Statements

To receive sickness benefits, you must have your doctor complete a statement of sickness in support of your claim. In addition, you may be asked to have your doctor provide the RRB with additional (supplemental) medical information in order to continue to receive your sickness benefit payments. How often supplemental medical information is required depends on several factors, including when you are expected to return to work. In determining when you may return to work, we consider your diagnosis, medical condition, age, normal occupation and the estimated disability period previously provided to the RRB by your doctor.

A statement of sickness may be completed by:

- a licensed medical doctor trained in medical and surgical diagnosis;
  - a licensed dentist in cases of infirmity relating to the teeth and gums;
  - a licensed podiatrist if the infirmity relates to the feet;
  - a licensed chiropractor;
  - a licensed doctor of clinical psychology;
  - a certified nurse/midwife in cases of pregnancy, miscarriage, or childbirth;
  - a superintendent or other supervisory official of a hospital, clinic, or similar organization;
  - a Christian Science practitioner;
  - a Physician Assistant – Certified; or
  - a nurse practitioner.

Sick Pay and Supplemental Sickness Benefits

Sickness benefits are not payable for any day for which you receive sick pay from your employer. But benefits may be paid if you receive supplemental sickness benefits from your employer or an insurance company. Sick pay is a continuation of part or all of your wages while you are unable to work. Sick pay is generally subject to all regular payroll deductions. You must report sick pay on your claim form; failure to do so may result in an overpayment of RRB sickness benefits that you will have to refund.

Supplemental sickness benefits are different from sick pay. Supplemental sickness benefits are payments made by your employer or an insurance company to supplement your RRB benefits and are not subject to Tier II retirement tax. Supplemental benefits are paid under plans submitted by your employer and approved by the RRB. Do not report supplemental sickness benefits on your claim. If you do not know whether payments you are receiving are supplemental under an RRB-approved plan, contact the RRB office nearest you for assistance.

Disqualifications

Separation Allowance (severance pay, buyout)

If you have been paid a separation allowance by your employer, you cannot receive sickness benefits for approximately the period of time it would have taken you to earn the amount of the allowance.

False or Fraudulent Claim

You will be disqualified for both unemployment and sickness benefits for 75 days if you make a false or fraudulent statement or claim in order to receive benefits. You may also be subject to fine or imprisonment. The RRB conducts checks, including computer matching checks, with State and Federal agencies as well as railroads, in order to detect fraudulent benefit claims.

Benefits Under Other Laws

You will be disqualified from receiving railroad sickness insurance benefits for any day for which you:

- receive sickness benefits under any other law; or
- receive unemployment benefits under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act or any similar law.

Medical Examination

In certain situations you may be required to be examined by a doctor selected by the RRB. If you fail to take the medical examination when required, you may be disqualified from receiving sickness benefits.

Benefit Reductions

Benefits are not payable to you in the full amount if you are also receiving:

- social security benefits,
- a pension, annuity, or other retirement pay under a Federal, State, or local law (such as a railroad retirement annuity, military retirement pay, a policeman's or fireman's pension, etc.),
- certain workers' compensation payments, or
- any other social insurance payment under any law.

If you meet the other eligibility requirements, you may receive benefits only in the amount by which your sickness benefits exceed the other payments.

Be sure to report all such other payments on each claim you file. If you do not, you may later be required to refund benefits. If the other payments are awarded after you claim sickness benefits, but cover some or all of the same days, contact the RRB immediately about repayment of the benefits you received.

If you are awarded an annuity under the Railroad Retirement Act that is for days you were already paid sickness benefits, you will have to refund some or all of your benefits. Generally, the amount you must repay is withheld from your accrued annuity. Your annuity award letter or notice of annuity adjustment will show the amount of any sickness benefits withheld. Verify the amount by comparing it to the amount of sickness benefits you received for the same period. Contact your local RRB office immediately if you believe the amount withheld is incorrect. You will be required to refund benefits to the RRB if the full amount was not withheld from your accrued annuity.

Personal Injury Settlements

You may receive benefits for any kind of injury or illness whether it occurs on or off the job; but if you are paid a settlement or collect damages as a result of the injury or illness, the amount of your benefits must be refunded to the RRB. This is true regardless of a State's "no-fault" law. The RRB will normally notify the liable party, and the person or company making the settlement or paying the damages usually reimburses the RRB for the amount due. However, if the RRB is not reimbursed in full at the time of settlement, you may have to repay benefits to the RRB.

Verify the accuracy of the amount of benefits withheld from your settlement by checking your own record of RRB payments or by contacting the RRB. Notify the RRB immediately if you believe the correct amount was not withheld from your settlement.

Reconsideration and Waiver

Employee Rights

Reconsideration - If you do not agree with any decision denying you benefits or with an overpayment decision, you may request reconsideration. Your request must be in writing and should explain why you disagree. If you request reconsideration, your request must be received at an office of the RRB within 60 days of the date of the letter notifying you of the adverse decision. Be sure to sign your name and include your social security number on your request.

Waiver - You may request waiver of recovery of your overpayment only if ALL of the following conditions are met:

1. The amount of the overpayment is more than 10 times the current maximum daily benefit rate;
2. you were not at fault in causing the overpayment; and
3. recovery would cause you financial hardship to the extent that you would not be able to meet your ordinary and necessary living expenses or recovery would be unfair for some other reason.

If your request for waiver is received at an office of the RRB within 60 days from the date of the letter notifying you of your debt, we will not recover the overpayment until a decision is made on your request.

Employer Rights

The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act requires the RRB to notify your base year employer(s) each time you file a claim for benefits, and to give the employer an opportunity to submit information relevant to your claim before the RRB makes an initial determination on the claim. The RRB must also notify your employer each time benefits are paid to you. Your employer may appeal the decision to pay benefits. The appeal does not prevent the timely payment of benefits. However, you may be required to repay benefits if the appeal is successful.

When Sickness Benefits are Taxable

Sickness benefits paid under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, with the exception of sickness benefits paid for an on-duty injury, are considered income for Federal income tax purposes. Each year, the RRB sends railroad employees Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, showing the amount of sickness benefits paid during the preceding calendar year. The amount shown on Form W-2 is the amount of benefits payable before deduction of Tier I railroad retirement tax. The amount includes benefits payable but withheld to offset a debt to the RRB. A Form W-2 is not issued if all benefits paid to an employee were for an on-the-job injury. A Form W-2 is also not issued if all benefits paid to an employee in a tax year are repaid in the same year.

You may file Form W-4s, Voluntary Tax Withholding, with the nearest RRB office if you want the RRB to withhold Federal income tax from your benefits. To change or end withholding you must file another Form W-4s with the RRB. Form W-4s is available upon request from the Internal Revenue Service.

The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act specifically exempts railroad sickness benefits from State income taxes.

Instructions for Completing Forms

General Instructions

Complete all items by printing neatly in ink or by using a typewriter. Do not skip any items unless directed to do so. If you need more space to answer a question, enclose a separate sheet of paper. Be sure to sign your name and date the form before mailing. Have your doctor complete Form SI-1b, Statement of Sickness. Do not separate the forms.

Read the following instructions carefully before completing your application. If your application is not completed correctly, your benefits may be delayed. Contact your local RRB office if you have questions or need assistance in completing the form.

Important Information

The completed and signed form must be received by an RRB office within 10 days of the first day for which you want to claim benefits. You may lose benefits if your application is filed late. If the form is late, enclose an explanation.

Once your application has been processed, a claim form will be mailed to you for completion. You must complete and return the claim to the RRB office whose address appears on the claim. A notice of the claim will be sent to your employer. A claim for the next 14-day period will be mailed to you on or about the last day of the period covered by the claim.

Your first sickness benefit claim is Items 16 through 20 on your Application for Sickness Benefits. After your application and claim have been received and processed, your next sickness claim will be mailed to you.

Item 16 is self-explanatory.

Item 17 – Check "Yes" if you want to claim every day from the date you entered in Item 16 through the current date as a day of sickness. Check "No" if you do not wish to claim every day. Remember that you cannot claim benefits for any day on which you worked or otherwise earned wages, holiday pay, vacation pay, sick pay (excluding supplemental sickness benefits) or other pay. This includes pay from full-time and part-time work in either railroad or nonrailroad employment, and from self-employment. You may claim rest days on which you were sick or injured and for which you do not receive pay from your employer.

Item 18 – If you checked "No" in Item 17, enter the dates that you do not wish to claim.

Item 19 – If you have recovered from your infirmity and have returned to work, enter the date here. However, if you worked one or more days, but then continued to be unable to work, do not enter a date in this item. For example, if you attempted to return to work but found that you were not able to continue working, indicate the days you worked and received wages in Item 18, but do not enter a date in Item 19.

Item 20A-C – You must complete all boxes to indicate the type of payments, if any, that you have received or will receive for days in the claim period. Put a check next to each type of payment that you have received or will receive and furnish the dates and/or other information requested about the payment. The types of payments are explained below.

A. Wages – Wages are payments that you receive from your railroad employer, from a nonrailroad employer or your own business for services you performed. Benefits are not payable for any day for which you receive wages.

Regular Pay – Pay for time worked, including full-time and part-time work.

Vacation Pay – Payment for scheduled or assigned vacation days. Vacation pay does not include “pay in lieu of vacation.” If you don’t know if the payment you received was “pay in lieu of vacation,” check with your payroll office before completing this item.

Holiday Pay – Payment from your employer for a holiday.

Military Reservist Pay - Wages paid to you by the Federal Government based on your military service.

Wage Continuation Pay – Salary or wages paid by your railroad employer when you have been injured on-duty. The purpose of the payments is to continue your wage or salary, not to supplement RRB benefits. The payments are subject to normal payroll deductions.

Earnings from Self-Employment – Payment for services performed.

Sick Pay from Your Employer – A continuation of all or part of your wages while you are unable to work. The term “Sick Pay” does not include supplemental sickness benefits. For an explanation of supplemental sickness benefits, see page 4.

B. Governmental Payments – Governmental payments are annuities or other payments made to you by a county, city, state or Federal Government. If you are receiving a governmental payment, check the appropriate box and give the beginning date, the gross amount and the frequency of the payment. For an explanation of how governmental payments affect the payment of sickness benefits by the RRB, see the section Benefit Reductions on page 4 .

Sickness or Unemployment Benefits Under Any Other Law – Benefits paid to you on account of sickness or unemployment by a county, city or state government, or by another Federal agency.

Social Security Benefits – Benefits paid to you by the Social Security Administration, excluding supplemental security income payments (SSI).

Railroad Retirement or Disability Annuity – Monthly payments made to you by the RRB based on your age and railroad service or on disability. An RRB annuity under the Railroad Retirement Act is not the same as RRB sickness benefits.

Military Retirement Pay – An annuity, pension or retainer pay paid to you by the Federal Government based on your military service.

Worker’s Compensation – Disability payments made to you under a state law when you have been injured on the job.

Retirement Payments Under Another Law – An annuity or pension paid to you by a county, city, state or Federal Government.

C. Other Payments – If you are receiving some type of other payment, check the appropriate box and give the date of the payment and who made the payment to you.

Settlement or Damages for Personal Injury – A payment received as a result of a judgment or the settlement of a personal-injury claim against your railroad employer or another party that you held liable for your injury or illness.

Advances – A payment received in anticipation of a settlement of a personal injury claim against your railroad employer.

Separation Allowance (Buyout, Severance Pay) – A payment received when you resign in return for a specified sum of money. The payments are also referred to as “buyouts” or “severance pay.” Payment may be made in a lump sum or installments in return for your resignation.

Item 21 is self-explanatory.

SECTION E - Direct Deposit Information

Item 22 – Federal law requires that most Federal payments be made by Direct Deposit. With Direct Deposit, your benefit payments are sent directly to your bank, savings and loan, credit union or other financial institution. Payments are sent electronically, which saves money by eliminating the need to print and mail checks.

Direct Deposit has many advantages. Direct Deposit payments are generally available 2 to 5 days sooner than payment by check. You do not have to worry about a check being lost, stolen or misplaced, and you can be away from home without the worry of a check sitting unprotected in your mailbox. There is no need to wait for mail delivery of a check or to make a special trip to your bank.

To provide the information we need to correctly deposit your benefit payments, attach a voided personal check to your application. If you do not attach a voided personal check, call your financial institution for the information you need to complete this item.

If you change your bank or your account while claiming benefits, be sure to submit a new voided personal check to the RRB to establish Direct Deposit to your new account. Do not close your old account until you receive the first RRB payment in your new account.

There are some exceptions that allow payments to be made by check:

- If receiving your payments by Direct Deposit would cause you a hardship because you have a physical or mental disability or because of a geographic, language, or literacy barrier; or
- if you do not have a checking or savings account at a bank or other financial institution; or
- if receiving your payments electronically would cause you a financial hardship because it would cost you more than receiving your payments by check.

If any of these apply to you, check the box in Item 22F.

SECTION F - Certification and Signature

Item 23 – By signing and dating this item you certify that the information contained on the form is true, correct, and complete.

If the sick or injured employee is unable to sign in Item 23, the person completing the application should sign in Item 23, and complete Form SI-10, Statement of Authority to Act for Employee.

Statement of Sickness (Form SI-1b)

The Statement of Sickness must be completed by your doctor or other qualified medical provider (see the section Medical Statements on page 3). If possible, have your doctor complete the statement while you are at his or her office, rather than leaving the form for completion. If you must leave the form for completion, explain to your doctor that the form is needed in order for you to receive bi-weekly benefit payments and that the form must be received by the Railroad Retirement Board within 10 days of the first day you became sick or injured or you may lose benefits.

Do not separate the Statement of Sickness from your Application for Sickness Benefits.

Statement of Authority to Act for Employee (Form SI-10)

Completion of Form SI-10, Statement of Authority to Act for Employee, is not required for an employee who can sign papers or can sign by a mark and who understands transactions related to his or her application for benefits.

Section 1 – Statement of Individual Acting for Employee

This section is to be completed by the individual who signed the Application for Sickness Benefits and who will act on behalf of the employee. If you are not related to the employee by blood or marriage, state your relationship and explain why no relative is acting for the employee. For example, an employee's foreman might explain: "My relationship to the employee is his foreman. He has no immediate family."

Section 2 – Statement of Employee's Doctor

Have the employee's medical doctor complete this section.

Claim for Sickness Benefits (Form SI-3)

The following instructions are for claim forms mailed to you by the RRB. Read the instructions carefully before completing your claim forms. Failure to complete your claim correctly could delay the payment of benefits.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Claims for days after your first claim (which is included on the Application for Sickness Benefits) will be mailed to you for as long as you remain unable to work and eligible for benefits. You must complete and return each claim promptly or you may lose benefits. The time for filing a claim, including time for mailing, is limited to 30 days from the last day of the claim period, or 30 days from the date the claim form was mailed to you, whichever is later.

If you return to work and stop claiming benefits, but become sick or injured again later in a benefit year, you must file a new Application for Sickness Benefits.

Remember that you cannot claim benefits for any day on which you worked or otherwise earned regular wages, vacation pay, holiday pay, military reservist pay, wage continuation pay, sick pay (excluding supplemental sickness benefits), or other pay. This includes pay from full-time and part-time work in either railroad or nonrailroad employment.

Use the following letter codes to show whether you are claiming benefits for the days in the claim period.

X - Enter an "X" if you did not work on the day, will not receive any type of pay for the day, and were unable to work because of injury or illness on the day. Any day you mark with an "X" is considered to be a day of sickness for which you are claiming benefits.

Use an "X" to claim normal rest days on which you were unable to work. Do not claim your rest days if you were able to work, worked, or otherwise received pay from either a railroad or nonrailroad employer for the days.

E - Enter an "E" if you were employed either full time or part time on the day. Include work for either a railroad or nonrailroad employer, and any self-employment.

P - Enter a "P" for any day that you were not employed, but will receive payment from a railroad or nonrailroad employer. This includes such payments as vacation pay, holiday pay, wage continuation pay, sick pay (excluding supplemental sickness benefits), daily wage guarantee payments, and pay for time lost.

Do not enter "P" for days you receive payments under a supplemental sickness benefit plan paid for or financed by your employer, such as benefits paid by Trustmark Insurance Company or Provident Life Insurance Company. Such payments are normally paid in addition to your sickness benefits from the RRB. For an explanation of the difference between regular sick pay, which you must report, and supplemental sickness benefits, see the back of your claim form or the section Sick Pay and Supplemental Sickness Benefits on page 4 of this booklet.

O - Enter an "O" for days on which you did not work and did not receive any type of payment, but which you do not wish to claim for some other reason.

Item 2 - If you have recovered from your infirmity and have returned to work, check the "YES" box and enter the date here. If you attempted to return to work but found that you were not able to continue working, check the "NO" box and indicate, in Item 1, the days you worked and received wages, but do not enter a return-to-work date in this item.

Item 3 - This item is pre-filled with the name and address of an RRB office. Mail your completed claim to that office.

Item 4 - This item is pre-filled with your name and address. If necessary, show corrections to your name and address in the box.

Item 5 - See Item 20 on page 6 of this booklet for instructions on completing this item.

Item 6 - By signing and dating this item you certify that the information contained on your claim form is true and complete. Do not complete and sign the claim form before the last day of the claim period. If your claim is received by the RRB before the last day of the claim period, benefits due you may be delayed or denied.

5. A private collection agency, the General Accounting Office, the Department of Justice, or the Internal Revenue Service for the collection of an overpayment.

6. Employers or insurance companies for use in administering supplemental benefit or health insurance plans.

7. Law enforcement agencies and the Department of Justice for investigating or prosecuting a violation of law.

8. Employers to verify entitlement to benefits and to provide notice of benefit payment determinations.

Although furnishing information, including your social security number, is voluntary, the RRB cannot pay you benefits without this information. The RRB's authority for requesting information is Section 5(b) of the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act.

The RRB may routinely furnish information from its records to other government agencies and to other persons or companies (see list below) for the purpose of administering the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, the Social Security Act, or other benefit programs under Federal or State laws.

Computer Matching and Privacy Protection Act Notice

In addition to the uses of information described in the preceding Privacy Act Notice, information you provide may be used, without your consent, in automated matching programs. These matching programs are a computer comparison of Railroad Retirement Board records with records kept by other Federal agencies or State and local governmental agencies. Information from these matching programs can be used to establish or verify a person's eligibility for benefits and for repayment of benefits or delinquent debts.

What Are Computer Matching Programs?

Computer matching programs compare our records with those of other Federal, State, or local government agencies. All agencies may use matching programs to find or prove that a person qualifies for benefits paid for by the Federal Government.

How Do Computer Matching Programs Affect You?

On forms that you fill out for us you give us facts about yourself. Sometimes, we check the facts you and others give us. We use computer matching to do the checking. The law allows us to check this way even if you do not agree to it. We can also give any facts we have about you to other governmental agencies for them to use in their computer matching programs.

Nondiscrimination on the Basis of Disability

Under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and RRB regulations, no qualified person may be discriminated against on the basis of disability. The RRB's programs and activities must be accessible to all qualified applicants and beneficiaries, including those who are vision or hearing impaired. Disabled persons needing assistance (including auxiliary aids or program information in accessible formats) should contact the nearest RRB office.

Complaints of alleged discrimination by the RRB on the basis of disability must be filed within 90 days in writing with the Director of Administration, Railroad Retirement Board, 844 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611-2092. Questions about individual rights under this regulation may be directed to the RRB's Director of Equal Opportunity at the same address.

Important Reminders

Filing Requirements—To avoid losing sickness benefits, your benefit application must be received by a Railroad Retirement Board (RRB) office within 10 days of the first day for which you want to claim benefits. Your sickness claims must be filed within 30 days of the last day of the claim or 30 days from the date we mail the form to you, whichever is later.

Benefit Year/Base Year—A new benefit year begins each July 1. Eligibility for benefits in a benefit year is based on your earnings in the previous calendar year (base year). For an example, see section titled Qualification Requirements.

Waiting Period Requirement—To satisfy a one-week waiting period requirement, no benefits are payable for your first 7 days of sickness in your first claim in a period of continuing sickness, unless you have already served a waiting period in the benefit year.

Even though no benefits are payable for the first 7 days of sickness, you must file a claim for your days of sickness during the waiting period; otherwise you may lose benefits for claims after the waiting period.

Do Not Claim Benefits for Days You Work or Receive Pay—Benefits are not payable for any day for which you receive pay. This includes wages from military reservist duty, full- or part-time work for a railroad, non-railroad employer, or self-employment. It also includes vacation pay, holiday pay, pay for time lost, guarantee pay and other types of remuneration.

Reconsideration Rights—You may request reconsideration of any decision denying you benefits. A request for reconsideration must be made in writing within 60 days of the date of notice of the Railroad Retirement Board's adverse decision.
