

Re: Teacher Training - Researchers in the project will not be gathering any written responses from teacher before, during, or at the conclusion of the teacher training. Connected Mathematics does ask for teacher feedback in the course of the training to guide their delivery, but none of these data will be used within the study. Two questions will be included in the demographic survey regarding teachers' perceived readiness to teach the mathematics curriculum in the coming year, but this survey has already been accounted for in the calculated burden.
