National Science Foundation Brief Survey of R&D Expenditures at Community Colleges

The National Science Foundation, a federal government agency, is charged with collecting and reporting information on science and engineering in the United States. As part of this mission, NSF collects information about research and development (R&D) performed at colleges and universities.

NSF is interested in learning more about R&D expenditures at community colleges to help decide if these institutions should be included in NSF's Survey of Research and Development Expenditures at Universities and Colleges in the future. This brief survey is about expenditures at your institution for separately budgeted R&D activities. Responding to this survey will take about 15-30 minutes.

Before answering these questions, please consider the following definitions.

- o Research is creative work conducted systematically to extend scientific knowledge, or devise new or improved applications.
- o Development is systematic use of knowledge or understanding gained from research for the production of useful materials, devices, systems or methods, including design and development of prototypes and processes.

R&D includes, but is not limited R&D does NOT include: to: Research grants awarded by Training grants federal government agencies, Demonstration projects state government, industry, or Curriculum development nonprofit organizations, Economic development including foundations programs Indirect costs associated with Faculty development research grants Public service grants Activities that produce findings Program evaluation that could be published by your Course evaluation faculty or students in academic Market research iournals or patented Routine testing or other Internal funding of specific support services for research faculty research projects conducted outside your college Internal funding for faculty to develop new or improved products or applications

Your responses to this survey will be combined with responses from other community colleges and only reported in aggregate form. Pursuant to 5 CFR 1320.5(b), an agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to an information collection unless it displays a valid OMB control number. The OMB control number for this collection is 3145-0100. Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average 30 minutes per response, including the time for reviewing instructions. Your response is entirely voluntary. Send comments regarding this burden estimate and any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing this burden, to: Reports Clearance Officer, Facilities and Operations Branch, Division of Administrative Services, National Science Foundation, Arlington, VA 22230.
