FOURTH

FROM THE CHIEF,
COMPANY STATISTICS DIVISION
U.S. CENSUS BUREAU

We still have not received your response to the 2007 Information and Communication Technology Survey form originally mailed to you in March. Title 13 of the United States Code requires that you respond to this survey. If you recently submitted a response, we thank you and ask that you disregard this notice.

It is essential that this survey be completed. As explained in an earlier letter, the data collected on the survey are a key source of information about our country's economic performance. Data on business investment in information and communication technology that falls below a company's capitalization threshold help economists to assess prospects for future productivity and economic growth. In addition, the data are an improved source of information for official estimates of the investment component of Gross Domestic Product, and U.S. capital stock and capital flows.

We are enclosing a duplicate form. The survey can also be completed online using Census Taker. To file electronically using this user-friendly application, go to www.census.gov/econhelp/icts.

If book figures are not available, we accept reasonable estimates. If you have questions, need help completing the survey, or need an extension of time for filing, please call 1-800-528-3049. Thank you for your cooperation and your contribution to this survey.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey L. Mayer
