

Schools participating in the Quality Assurance program do not have to fill out a specific, formal application. Schools that wish to participate in the Quality Assurance program must send us a letter that states their interest in participating. Federal Student Aid then screens prospective participants to determine if the institution meets general Title IV eligibility requirements and has a demonstrated record of program compliance.