another study. another excuse to sit at a desk and do nothing about the situation. i think we have hundreds of studies on this subject and the taxpayers do not need to pay for another one. i dont think this spending of tax dollars helps the american community at all. shut it down. and those who seem to need study after study after study need to be fired. we need action - not these studies of subjects which have already been gone over and over and over. violence against women goes on in all communities.
