Fact Sheet

Section 4 Loan Guarantee Recovery Fund United States Department of Housing and Urban Development Office of Community Planning and Development

The Loan Guarantee Recovery Fund is a program authorized under Section 4 of the Church Arson Prevention Act of 1996. Section 4 authorizes HUD to guarantee loans made by financial institutions to certain nonprofit organizations to finance activities designed to remedy the damage and destruction to real and personal property caused by acts of arson or terrorism. Regulations governing the Section 4 Loan Guarantee Recovery Fund are found at 24 CFR part 573. [See also the web site at <http://www.hud.gov/offices/cpd/economicdevelopment/programs/section4/index.cfm>.]

An application for a loan guarantee is submitted to HUD by a qualified Financial Institution on behalf of an eligible Borrower.

"Eligible Borrower" means an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, whose property has been damaged or destroyed as a result of an act of arson or terrorism and that incurs a debt obligation to a financial institution for the purpose of carrying out activities eligible under 24 CFR 573.3. Though the organization may not have sought or obtained a ruling from the IRS under the section, its purpose must be consistent with that of organizations described therein. [See 24 CFR 573.2]

"Financial Institution" means a lender, which may be a bank, trust company, savings and loan association, credit union, mortgage company, or other issuer regulated by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Office of Thrift Supervision, the Credit Union Administration, or the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency. A Financial Institution may also be a Pension Fund. [See 24 CFR 573.2]

"Eligible activities" [See 24 CFR 573.3] include the following activities when certified in accordance with §573.6(e) that the activity is necessary to address damage caused by an act or acts of arson or terrorism as certified in accordance with §573.6(f):

- (a) Acquisition of improved or unimproved real property in fee or under long term lease.
- (b) Acquisition and installation of personal property.
- (c) Rehabilitation of real property owned, acquired, or leased by the Borrower.
- (d) Construction, reconstruction or replacement of real property improvement.
- (e) Clearance, demolition, and removal, including movement of structures to other sites, of buildings, fixtures and improvements on real property.
- (f) Site preparation, including construction, reconstruction, or installation of site improvements, utilities, or facilities, which is related to the activities described in paragraph (a), (c), or (d) above.

(g) Architectural, engineering and similar services necessary to develop plans in connection with activities financed under paragraph (a), (b), (c), or (d) above.

(h) Acquisition, installation and restoration of security systems.

(i) Loans for refinancing existing indebtedness secured by a property which has been or will be acquired, constructed, rehabilitated or reconstructed, if such financing is determined to be appropriate to achieve the objectives of the Act and this part.

(j) Other necessary project costs such as insurance, bonding, legal fees, appraisals, surveys, relocation, and closing costs, which have been paid or incurred by the Borrower in connection with the completion of the above activities.

Replacement of Damaged Property [See 24 CFR 573.7(a)(4)]

As provided in Section 24 CFR 573.7(a)(4) of the regulations governing the use of the guaranteed loan funds, HUD may limit loan guarantees to loans financing the replacement of damaged property with comparable new property.

HUD considers the term “comparable new property” to mean a structure or structure(s) with similar quantitative and qualitative features as the damaged property. Generally, the comparable new property would be approximately the same or similar in size, materials, and design as the original structure prior to the arson or terrorism incident. A comparable new property must meet local building codes (as well as local or national historic property standards, if applicable) and is handicapped accessible.

Where a need can be demonstrated for features not required by the local building codes, such as fire retardant materials, security systems or the like, HUD may allow up to an additional 20% of the replacement cost of the comparable new property to be used to defray such additional expenditures. HUD may finance the construction of a comparable new property larger in square footage than the damaged property. However, a new property may be permitted to be larger than 20% of the damaged property on a case-by-case basis only where reasonable growth assumptions can be supported.

Estimating the cost of a comparable new property requires as much knowledge as possible about the damaged or destroyed property. That knowledge may be gained from one or more of the following sources: (1) original building plans of the property before the act of arson or terrorism; (2) foundation layout, footprint, drawings or sketches, surveys, and/or photos of the original structure’s dimensions (total square footage), exterior and interior materials, equipment and systems (i.e. heat, air and plumbing) that were in place before the property was damaged or destroyed.
