United States of America

AT THE FIRST SESSION

Begun and held at the City of Washington on Tuesday, the fifth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and ninety-three

An Act

To provide for the establishment of strategic planning and performance measurement in the Federal Government, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Government Performance and Results Act of 1993”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

(1) waste and inefficiency in Federal programs undermine the confidence of the American people in the Government and reduces the Federal Government’s ability to address adequately vital public needs;

(2) Federal managers are seriously disadvantaged in their efforts to improve program efficiency and effectiveness, because of insufficient articulation of program goals and inadequate information on program performance; and

(3) congressional policymaking, spending decisions and program oversight are seriously handicapped by insufficient attention to program performance and results.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are to—

(1) improve the confidence of the American people in the capability of the Federal Government, by systematically holding Federal agencies accountable for achieving program results;

(2) initiate program performance reform with a series of pilot projects in setting program goals, measuring program performance against those goals, and reporting publicly on their progress;

(3) improve Federal program effectiveness and public accountability by promoting a new focus on results, service quality, and customer satisfaction;

(4) help Federal managers improve service delivery, by requiring that they plan for meeting program objectives and by providing them with information about program results and service quality;

(5) improve congressional decisionmaking by providing more objective information on achieving statutory objectives, and on the relative effectiveness and efficiency of Federal programs and spending; and

(6) improve internal management of the Federal Government.

“(b)(1) Each program performance report shall set forth the performance indicators established in the agency performance plan under section 1115, along with the actual program performance achieved compared with the performance goals expressed in the plan for that fiscal year.

“(2) If performance goals are specified in an alternative form under section 1115(b), the results of such program shall be described in relation to such specifications, including whether the performance failed to meet the criteria of a minimally effective or successful program.

“(c) The report for fiscal year 2000 shall include actual results for the preceding fiscal year, the report for fiscal year 2001 shall include actual results for the two preceding fiscal years, and the report for fiscal year 2002 and all subsequent reports shall include actual results for the three preceding fiscal years.

In preparing and submitting the performance plan under section 1105(a)(29), the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall review and may approve any proposed waivers. A waiver shall take effect at the beginning of the fiscal year for which the waiver is approved.

“(b) Any such proposal under subsection (a) shall describe the anticipated effects on performance resulting from greater managerial or organizational flexibility, discretion, and authority, and shall quantify the expected improvements in performance resulting from any waiver. The expected improvements shall be compared to current actual performance, and to the projected level of performance that would be achieved independent of any waiver.

“(c) Any proposal waiving limitations on compensation or remuneration shall precisely express the monetary change in compensation or remuneration amounts, such as bonuses or awards, that shall result from meeting, exceeding, or failing to meet performance goals.

“(d) Any proposed waiver of procedural requirements or controls imposed by an agency (other than the proposing agency or the Office of Management and Budget) may not be included in a performance plan unless it is endorsed by the agency that established the requirement, and the endorsement included in the proposing agency's performance plan.

“(e) A waiver shall be in effect for one or two years as specified by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget in approving the waiver. A waiver may be renewed for a subsequent year. After a waiver has been in effect for three consecutive years, the performance plan prepared under section 1115 may propose that a waiver, other than a waiver of limitations on compensation or remuneration, be made permanent.

Proposed Project

Title: Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey (Baby FACES).

OMB No. New Collection

Description: The Administration for Children and Families (ACF), U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, is conducting a descriptive study of Early Head Start Programs (Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey, or Baby FACES). Baby FACES is a longitudinal study of a nationally representative sample of programs and children in two cohorts (perinatal and age 1) that will collect information about programs, services, families, and children. Data for Baby FACES will be annually collected through interviews with parents, teachers, home visitors, and program directors/managers, as well as direct child assessments, videotaped parent child interactions, and observations of the home environment when children are two and three years old. Data collection will also include quality observations of child care center classrooms and home visits conducted by program staff.

Data will be collected on a sample of approximately 2,000 children and families selected at random from 90 Early Head Start programs. Over the life of the project, Baby FACES will involve four waves of data collection, ending when the second cohort of children (perinatal cohort) reaches 36 months of age. This information collection request covers the first three years of data collection. All waves of data collection will acquire program level information through an hour-long program director interview. Additionally, staff from all programs will complete a simple service tracking form every week for each child in the sample for all years to determine what services are being delivered to families.

Respondents: Parents of EHS Children, EHS Children, EHS Teachers, Home Visitors, and Program Directors/Managers.

BABY FACES 2009 CONSENT FORM

We are inviting you and your child to participate in the Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey (Baby FACES). The purpose of Baby FACES is to learn more about families in Early Head Start and the kinds of services Early Head Start provides to families with infants and toddlers. Information from this study will be used to help Early Head Start better serve all children and their families. Baby FACES is sponsored by the Administration for Children and Families of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and is being conducted by Mathematica Policy Research, Inc. (MPR), an independent research company.

If you agree to participate and are one of the families selected for the study...

We will interview you in spring 2009, and each spring your child is enrolled in Early Head Start until he or she is 3 years old. We will ask you questions about the kinds of things your child can do, about your family's activities and routines, about your feelings, and about your health. These interviews will take about one hour and will be conducted in your language. We will give you $35 after each interview to thank you for your help.

We will ask your child to do some activities so we can find out how Early Head Start helps children learn and grow. When your child is age 2 and again at age 3, we will ask him or her to take part in some fun activities, such as doing a puzzle, with a trained researcher. These activities take about 30 minutes. Each time your child participates, he or she will receive a special gift as a thank-you.

We will ask your child's Early Head Start primary caregivers or home visitors some questions so that we can learn more about the progress your child is making.

You can choose whether you and your child will be part of the study. Your participation is completely voluntary. Your decision will not influence the Early Head Start services you and your child are receiving. No one from the Early Head Start program will see or hear your answers or be informed about how your child does on the activities. All of the study results will be reported for groups of parents and children, and no results will be reported for individuals. There is one exception—if we learn that a child has been abused or is endangered, we are required by law to report this to the appropriate authorities, which could result in official action in accordance with state law.

If you have any questions about the Baby FACES study, please call Cassandra Meagher, Survey Director, toll free at xxx-xxx-xxxx. If you have any questions about your rights as a research volunteer, please call [NAME] toll free at xxx-xxx-xxxx.

Please sign the enclosed consent form and give it to your Early Head Start home visitor or primary caregiver. Thank you for helping us.

I have read this consent form and understand what I am being asked to do.

I agree that my child and I will participate in this study. I also agree to have Baby FACES researchers collect some information from my child’s home visitors or primary caregivers in Early Head Start. I will be paid $35 each time I am interviewed, and I will also receive a gift for my child each time my child is assessed. I may withdraw this consent at any time without penalty.

The Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey

What is Early Head Start?

Early Head Start is a federally funded, community-based program for low-income families with infants and toddlers and pregnant women. Its goal is to promote healthy prenatal outcomes for pregnant women, enhance the development of very young children, and support child and family well-being. Early Head Start provides families with early education services, home visits, parenting education, comprehensive health and mental health services, and high-quality child care.

www.acf.hhs.gov/programs/opre

What is Baby FACES?

Baby FACES - the Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey - will provide descriptions of the characteristics, experiences, and outcomes for children and families served by Early Head Start. Baby FACES also will collect information on Early Head Start program services and delivery. All of this information will be used to help Early Head Start improve services to infants and toddlers and their families.

Who will participate in Baby FACES?

Approximately 2,100 children and families from 90 Early Head Start programs from around the country will be randomly selected to participate in the study. Children from each selected program will be chosen by chance from two cohorts (perinatal and age 1). The study will continue until the pre-birth children are 3 years old. Participation in the study is completely voluntary for programs and families.

What kind of information will be collected?

Information will be gathered through direct child assessments and interviews with parents, teachers, home visitors, and program directors. The study also will include observations of classrooms, home visits, parent-child interactions, and the home environment as well as child ratings by primary caregivers and teachers.

When will the information be collected?

During the course of the study, Baby FACES will collect information on programs and families in spring over four years 2009-2012.

Who is Conducting Baby FACES?

Mathematica Policy Research (MPR), Incorporated is conducting the study under contract to the Administration for Children and Families, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey (Baby FACES)

The Research Team

Since its founding in 1995, Early Head Start has provided program services for low-income pregnant women and families with infants and toddlers based on a foundation of rigorous research combined with an emphasis on continuous program improvement. The Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Study (Baby FACES) is the next step in a comprehensive research agenda aimed at maintaining an up-to-date, extensive knowledge base to support Early Head Start policies and programs.

Baby FACES is a periodic, longitudinal study designed to be a reliable source of data for describing the experiences of Early Head Start children and their families. Your program is invited to participate in this national study sponsored by the Administration for Children and Families.

The study will be conducted by Mathematica Policy Research, Inc. (MPR), a respected, independent policy research organization whose studies of early childhood and education initiatives, and other programs, have been used to inform national policymakers for more than 35 years. MPR is consulting with nationally recognized experts in early childhood and Early Head Start programs including Tammy Mann, of ZERO TO THREE; Judith Jerald, of Save the Children; and Brenda Jones Harden, of the University of Maryland.

To meet the challenges and realize the full promise of Baby FACES, MPR has assembled an exemplary team with knowledge of and experience in Early Head Start and early childhood research and practice. Our study design will ensure both high-quality and timely Baby FACES data and enhance its potential to provide a profile of the Early Head Start program and its participants. We are committed to translating research findings into formats that programs and policymakers can use.

Selecting Programs

The study will include 90 randomly selected, nationally representative Early Head Start programs that meet eligibility criteria. Programs' eligibility will be determined from the most recently available Head Start Program Information Report (PIR) database (program year 2006–2007). Programs must directly provide Early Head Start services to children to be included in the study.

Selecting Families

We will select a representative sample of families with children in two age cohorts: perinatal and age 1.

Collecting Information

Baby FACES will use a comprehensive set of data collection instruments designed to assess program services and implementation, children's growth and development, and parent-child relationship and home environment quality. A team of Mathematica staff will gather the data through direct child assessments and interviews with parents, primary caregivers, home visitors, and program directors. The study will also include observations of child care center classrooms, home visits, and the home environment, and information on services that families receive throughout the year (provided by program staff).

On-Site Assistance

We will establish a cooperative partnership with an on-site coordinator (OSC) from each program. We will ask the OSC to help with getting consent from families to participate in the study, scheduling child assessments, setting up parent interviews, and helping to collect information on services families receive. Our plan will detail procedures for scheduling make-up visits for children who were absent during the data collection week; for interviewing in person, or by telephone, parents who could not be interviewed during our main visit to the site; and for completing family services tracking information.

Confidentiality

MPR is committed to respecting the privacy of respondents and maintaining the confidentiality of the data entrusted to us. Having conducted many studies involving disadvantaged populations, MPR is experienced in implementing stringent security procedures. Study results will be reported only in group form; we will not present data on child performance by primary caregiver, by class, or by program. In this way, the confidentiality of children, families, primary caregivers, and programs will be carefully guarded. At the beginning of the study, we will inform parents about the study and our confidentiality policies; we will also distribute consent forms that allow parents to remove their child from the study if they so choose. The survey director will be responsible for making sure that interviewers and assessment staff understand the necessity of maintaining strict confidentiality. All staff involved with the study will sign confidentiality pledges.

Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey

Baby FACES Family Brochure

Experiences in Early Head Start

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
Administration for Children and Families

The Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey (Baby FACES) is the largest national study of Early Head Start ever undertaken to gather information about families served by Early Head Start. The Office of Head Start and your local Early Head Start program are working hard to improve services—Baby FACES is helping us learn how we are doing.

To understand Early Head Start better, the Baby FACES research team collects information in many different ways. If your family is selected, we will ask to interview you each spring that your child is in Early Head Start. We will ask you questions about yourself, your family, and your experience with Early Head Start.

Participating families will be interviewed once a year and receive $35 for each interview. We will also meet with your child each year and ask him or her to do a set of activities so that we can learn about children’s development. The activities we will ask your child to do are the kinds of things children do at Early Head Start. You will also receive a gift for your child each time he or she does these activities.

All the answers you and your child give are confidential. They will never be shared with anyone from Early Head Start. The decision to take part in the study is yours. However, if you decide not to be part of Baby FACES (even though we hope you will), it will not affect your or your child’s Early Head Start participation.

Baby FACES is sponsored by the Administration for Children and Families, the government agency which oversees Early Head Start. The work is being conducted by Mathematica Policy Research, Inc. (MPR). All staff members working on Baby FACES have lots of experience doing research with young children and their families, and have been fully trained for this study.

If you have any questions about Baby FACES, you may call Mathematica’s toll-free number X-XXX-XXX-XXXX between 9 A.M. and 9 P.M. Eastern Time. If you call after these hours, you may leave a message and we will return your call.

More than 2,000 families and children from Early Head Start programs across the nation are participating in the first round of Baby FACES. We hope yours will be one of the families helping us in Baby FACES.

Thank you for your participation! Your help is valuable to us and to all Early Head Start children and families!

Spring 2009

Dear [FILL PARENT]:

[FILL Program NAME] is participating in the Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey (Baby FACES). This study will gather information that will help the Early Head Start program improve services to families with infants and toddlers. The survey is sponsored by the Administration for Children and Families of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and is being conducted by Mathematica Policy Research, Inc., an independent research company. This is a very important study, and we strongly encourage selected families to participate if they can!

If you consent to be in the study and your family is selected to participate in it, we will interview you in spring 2009, and each spring thereafter that your child is enrolled in Early Head Start until he or she is 3 years old. We will ask you questions about the kinds of things your child can do, about your family's activities and rules, about your feelings, and about your health. These interviews will take about one hour and will be conducted in your language. We will give you $35 each time you are interviewed to thank you for your help.

So that Baby FACES can find out how Early Head Start helps children learn and grow, each year we will also ask your child to complete some fun activities at his or her child care center or through a home visit. These activities take about 30 minutes. We will also ask your child's Early Head Start primary caregiver or home visitor how your child is progressing, and we will measure your child's height and weight. Each time your child participates, your child will receive a special thank-you gift.

You can choose whether or not you and your child will be part of the study. Your decision about participation will not affect the Early Head Start services you and your child are receiving. Also, we want to assure you that all information from this study will be strictly confidential. Nothing that you share with us will ever be connected with your name or your child's name. The information will not be shared with your Early Head Start program and will not be passed on to any school or government agency in a way that can be connected with you. The information that is collected will appear only in reports in which individual names are never used and in which individuals are never identified. There is one exception—if we learn that a child has been abused or is endangered we must report this to the appropriate authorities, which could result in official action in accordance with state law.

If you have any questions about the Baby FACES study, please call me toll free at [xxx-xxx-xxxx]. I would be happy to talk with you. If you have any questions about your rights as a research volunteer, please call XXXX toll free at [xxx-xxx-xxxx].

Please sign the attached consent form and give it to your Early Head Start home visitor or primary caregiver at the Early Head Start program. Thank you for helping us.

Sincerely,

[MPR Baby FACES COORDINATOR]

Mathematica Policy Research, Inc., an independent research company, is conducting Baby FACES. The study is gathering information that will help the Early Head Start program improve services to families with infants and toddlers.

Our staff will be contacting you in about one week to conduct an interview similar to the one you participated in last spring. We will ask you questions about the kinds of things your child can do, about some of your family's activities, about some of your feelings, and about your health. The interview will take about one hour and can be done by telephone, or if you prefer, we can set up an appointment to interview you in-person during our visit to your child's Early Head Start program on [DATE OF FIELD VISIT]. The interview will be conducted in your language, and we will give you $35 and a book for your child to thank you for your help.
