

Instructions for Form 8926

(December 2008)

Department of the Treasury
Internal Revenue Service

Disqualified Corporate Interest Expense Disallowed Under Section 163(j) and Related Information

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Corporations are allowed to claim deductions for interest paid to related persons not subject to tax on the interest received, subject to the limitations imposed by section 163(j), if applicable. Corporations subject to this rule may carry forward the disallowed interest to a succeeding taxable year.

Who Must File

A corporation must file Form 8926 if it has disqualified interest and has excess interest for the year.

Corporations that do not have excess interest expense (see Excess Interest Expense below) or disqualified interest (see Disqualified Interest below) are not required to file this form.

Definitions

Except as otherwise indicated, the following terms are defined as shown below.

Disqualified Interest

Disqualified interest is:

1. Interest paid or accrued to a related person if no tax is imposed with respect to the interest,
2. Interest paid or accrued to an unrelated person where a related person not subject to tax has guaranteed the debt and where no gross basis tax has been imposed by the United States on the interest, and
3. Interest paid or accrued by a taxable Real Estate Investment Trust (REIT) subsidiary to that REIT (as defined in section 856(l)).

Excess Interest Expense

Excess interest expense means the excess (if any) of the corporation's net interest expense over the sum of 50 percent of the adjusted taxable income of the corporation plus any excess limitation carryforward.

Debt to Equity

The ratio of debt to equity is the ratio which the total indebtedness of the corporation bears to the sum of its money and all other assets reduced (but not below zero) by such total indebtedness. In determining the amount of the corporation's assets, noncash assets are taken into account at their adjusted bases.

Also, for this purpose, the amount taken into account with respect to any indebtedness with original issue discount (OID) shall be its issue price plus the portion of the OID previously accrued as determined under the rules of section 1272 (determined without regard to section 1272(a)(7) or (b)(7)).

Indebtedness. Debt is determined in accordance with generally applicable tax principles. Thus, in general, a contingent liability for financial accounting purposes that has not accrued for tax purposes will not be treated as a liability for purposes of section 163(j).

Related Person

A related person is any person who is related under sections 267(b) or 707(b)(1) to the taxpayer. For this purpose, the attribution rules of section 267(c) apply. In determining whether persons are related, the substance of ownership, rather than its form, controls.

You determine relatedness as of the date on which an item of interest expense accrues. Consequently, changes in the relationship between the payor corporation and the payee after the accrual date are irrelevant.

Partnerships. Any interest paid or accrued to a partnership which is a related person shall not be treated as paid or accrued to a related person if less than 10 percent of the profits and capital interest in the partnership are held by persons with respect to whom no tax is imposed by the United States on the interest paid.

Exception. This exception does not apply to any interest allocable to any partner in such partnership who is a related person to the taxpayer.

Affiliated Groups

All members of the same affiliated group (under section 1504(a)) shall be treated as one corporation.

Corporations filing on behalf of an affiliated group that have been following the 1991 proposed regulations that were never finalized should continue to follow the proposed regulations when filing the form. Corporations filing on behalf of an affiliated group who have not been following the proposed regulations should use a method which is reasonably consistent with section 163(j) when filing the form.

Disallowed interest. Any amount disallowed for any taxable year shall be treated as disqualified interest paid or accrued in the succeeding taxable year. See Line 5e on page 3 for further information.

Treaties

If any treaty between the U.S. and any foreign country reduces the rate of tax imposed on a partner's share of any interest paid or accrued to a partnership, that partner's interests in such partnership shall be treated as held in part by a tax-exempt person and in part by a taxable person.

In that situation, such an interest shall be treated as tax-exempt to the extent of the same proportion of such interest as (i) the rate of tax imposed without regard to such treaty, reduced by the rate of tax imposed under the treaty, bears to (ii) the rate of tax imposed without regard to the treaty.

If any treaty between the United States and a foreign country reduces the rate of tax imposed on the interest paid or accrued by the corporation, the interest is treated as disqualified interest to the extent of the amount of the interest multiplied by the ratio that the rate of tax imposed without regard to the treaty reduced by the rate of tax imposed by the treaty bears to the rate of tax imposed without regard to the treaty.

Pass-Thru Entities

In the case of any interest paid or accrued to a partnership, the determination of whether any tax imposed by the U.S. on such interest shall be made at the partner level. Other pass-thru entities other than a partnership, tiered partnerships, and other entities share the same rules.

Net Interest Expense

A corporation's net interest expense is defined as the excess (if any) of (a) the interest paid or accrued by the corporation during the taxable year over (b) the amount of interest includible in the gross income of the corporation for that tax year.

Disqualified Guarantee

A guarantee is any arrangement under which a person, directly or indirectly through an entity or otherwise, assures, on a conditional or unconditional basis, the payment of another person's obligation under any indebtedness.

A disqualified guarantee is any guarantee by a related person which is a tax-exempt organization or a foreign person.

A disqualified guarantee, however, does not include a guarantee where the interest on the indebtedness would have been subject to a net basis tax if the interest had been paid to the guarantor or if the corporation owns a controlling interest in the guarantor.

Controlling Interest. For this purpose, a controlling interest means direct or indirect ownership of at least 80 percent of the total voting power and value of all classes of stock of a corporation, or 80 percent of the profit and capital interests in any other entity. For rules applicable to interest in entities other than corporations, see section 267(c)(1) and (5).

Gross basis and net basis taxation. Gross basis tax means any tax which is determined by reference to the gross amount of any item of income without any reduction for any deduction. A net basis tax means any tax which is not a gross basis tax.

Corporate Partners

With respect to corporations that own (directly or indirectly) an interest in a partnership,

- A corporation's distributive share of interest income paid or accrued to such partnership shall be treated as interest income paid or accrued to such corporation,

- A corporation's distributive share of interest paid or accrued by such partnership shall be treated as interest paid or accrued by such corporation, and
- A corporation's share of the liabilities of the partnership shall be treated as the liabilities of the corporation.

Other Limitations on the Deductibility of Interest

Other Code sections limiting the deductibility of interest, such as sections 267(a)(3) or 163(e)(3), apply before section 163(j).
