USDA/1994 TRIBAL SCHOLARS PROGRAM

BACKGROUND

The USDA/1994 Tribal Scholars Program is designed to assist USDA managers attract talented and diverse students to their agency. It combines a scholarship with an internship experience to fill critical positions within an agency.

The USDA helps students attain academic and employment success during and after their attendance at tribal colleges. We strive to nurture students through their transition into and through post-secondary education so that they can pursue their dreams. We hope to attract students attending 1994 Land-Grant Institutions interested in the food, agricultural, and natural resources science, and other related disciplines who would be willing to work for a USDA agency after their graduation in said degree.

ABOUT 1994 LAND-GRANT INSTITUTIONS

The 1994 Land-Grant Institutions are tribally-controlled colleges and universities that were granted Land-Grant status under an Act of Congress first in 1994 and subsequent legislation in 1998, 2002, 2004, 2005, and 2008. The ranks of the 1994 Institutions have grown to include an Alaska Native controlled college through legislation in 2008.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the USDA/1994 Tribal Scholars Program is to:

1. Strengthen the long-term partnership between USDA and the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions;
2. Increase the number of students studying agriculture, food, and natural resources sciences; and
3. Offer career opportunities to USDA/1994 Tribal Scholars at the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

THE AWARD

Scholarships are awarded annually and must be used at one of the thirty-two 1994 Land-Grant Institutions.

USDA agencies provide scholars with the following benefits:

Full tuition payment, required fees, and books

Loan of a USDA computer (laptop, printer, and software) while a scholar

Transportation stipend

One-week orientation

Mentoring, tutoring, career development, and leadership training

Paid summer employment/internship with sponsoring USDA agency

Permanent USDA position upon graduation

GENERAL ELIGIBILITY

- Students must attend a 1994 Land-Grant Institution
- Demonstrate an interest in public service and pursuing a career with USDA
- Have a recommended minimum GPA of 2.5 (on a 4.0 scale)
- Study agriculture, food, natural resources sciences, or other related disciplines
- Not yet have a bachelor's degree
- Be a U.S. citizen

PAYBACK

The USDA/1994 Tribal Scholars Program recipients incur a service obligation of one year for each year of scholarship support received (or the part-time equivalent) with a minimum service period of one year at either Washington, DC USDA Agencies or USDA field offices throughout the U.S.A, which may or may not be close to the Scholar's home community.

USDA/1994 TRIBAL SCHOLARS PROGRAM

ABOUT USDA

USDA's mission is to provide leadership on food, agriculture, natural resources, and related issues based on sound public policy, the best available science, and efficient management. USDA's vision is the desire to be recognized as a dynamic organization that is able to efficiently provide the integrated program delivery needed to lead a rapidly evolving food and agriculture system. USDA began in 1862 when President Abraham Lincoln founded this federal agency. He called it the "people's Department" because this is the agency that would feed the people and serve a large portion of the population—farmers. Today, USDA does much more than helping farmers and ranchers:

- USDA leads the Federal anti-hunger effort with the Food Stamp, School Lunch, School Breakfast, and the Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) Programs;
- USDA is the steward of our nation's 192 million acres of national forests and rangelands;
- USDA is the country's largest conservation agency, encouraging voluntary efforts to protect soil, water, and wildlife on the 70 percent of America's lands that are in private hands;
- USDA brings housing, modern telecommunications, and safe drinking water to rural America;
- USDA is responsible for the safety of meat, poultry, and egg products;
- USDA is a research leader in everything from human nutrition to new crop technologies that allow the United States to grow more food and fiber using less water and pesticides;
- USDA helps ensure open markets for U.S. agricultural products and provides food aid to needy

ABOUT THE USDA 1994 PROGRAM

The Office of USDA 1994 Program was established to develop policy guidelines and procedures; coordinate and oversee further participation in the Department's programs and activities; and monitor, evaluate, and report on agency compliance with policy and Executive Orders to increase participation of 1994 Land-Grant Institutions.

USDA coordinates its partnership with the 1994 Land-Grant Institutions through the USDA Office of the Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights (OASCR). OASCR supports the USDA and the American Indian Higher Education Consortium (AIHEC) Leadership Group, a national advisory body comprised of USDA Mission Area representatives and 1994 Institutions' Presidents that provides the strategic direction for the USDA and 1994s partnership. As such, the USDA/1994 Program is a mutual effort between the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the American Indian Higher Education Consortium (AIHEC). Together, we work to accomplish the USDA/1994 Program Mission.

Mission

Enhancing the capability of American Indian/Alaska Natives to attain educational excellence and to contribute positively to the fulfillment of the USDA's mission.

Values

While conducting our mission, we value:

Trust—Respond with honest action;

Respect—Honor the unique cultures and histories;

Commitment—Are dedicated to compassionate service;

Partnerships—Work together and share one vision.
