

subject firm during the relevant time period. The Department conducted a further investigation and determined that none of the direct customers of the subject firm were certified eligible for TAA during the relevant time period.

Furthermore, the Department requested an additional list of customers from the subject firm and conducted a new customer survey regarding their purchases of furniture blanks, stair balusters, and handle blanks in 2005, 2006 and January through May of 2007 over the corresponding 2006 period. This survey revealed no imports of furniture blanks, stair balusters, and handle blanks during the relevant time period.

After reconsideration, I affirm the original notice of negative determination of eligibility to apply for worker adjustment assistance for workers and former workers of South Indiana Lumber Company, Inc., Liberty, Kentucky.

Signed at Washington, DC this 29th day of August, 2007.

AGENCY: Employment and Training Administration.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Department of Labor, as part of its continuing effort to reduce paperwork and respondent burden, conducts a preclearance consultation program to provide the general public and Federal agencies an opportunity to comment on proposed and/or continuing collections of information in accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA95) [44 U.S.C. 3506(c)(2)(A)]. helps to ensure that requested data can be provided in the desired format, reporting burden (time and financial resources) is minimized, collection instruments are clearly understood, and the impact of collection requirements on respondents can be properly assessed. Currently, the Employment and Training Administration is soliciting comments concerning the proposed three-year continuation of the National Agricultural Workers Survey with revisions.

DATES: Written comments must be submitted to the office listed in the addressee's section below on or before November 5, 2007.

ADDRESSES: Submit written comments to the Employment and Training Administration, Office of Policy Development and Research, 200 Constitution Avenue, NW., Room N5641, Washington, DC 20210, Attention: Mr. Daniel Carroll. Telephone number: 202-693-2795 (this is not a toll-free number). Fax: 202-693-2766. E-mail: carroll.daniel.j@dol.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Department of Labor has been continually surveying hired farm workers since 1988 via the National Agricultural Workers Survey (NAWS). The survey's primary focus is to describe the employment, demographic, and health characteristics of hired crop farm workers. It is the only national-level data source for this information.

The NAWS provides an understanding of the manpower resources available to U.S. agriculture, and both public and private service programs use the data for planning, implementing, and evaluating farm worker programs.

The NAWS samples hired crop farm workers in three cycles each year to capture the seasonality of agricultural employment. Workers are randomly sampled at their work sites. During the initial contact, arrangements are made to interview the respondent at home or at another location of convenience to the respondent. Depending on the information needs and resources of the various federal agencies that use NAWS data, between 1,500 and 4,000 workers are interviewed each year.

The primary NAWS questionnaire routinely provides a standard set of information on the employment, demographic, and health characteristics of hired crop workers. When new information is required, Federal agencies add supplemental collection instruments to the NAWS.

Beginning with the October 2007 interview cycle, the Employment and Training Administration, in partnership with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, proposes to collect additional information on the occupational health of hired crop workers via the NAWS. The new information would come from administering new questions on occupational mental health.

The purpose of this notice is to solicit comments regarding: (1) The currently approved versions of the primary questionnaire and the agricultural occupational injury supplement; and (2) the addition of the occupational mental health questions. The primary questionnaire, injury supplement, and proposed occupational mental health questions are discussed below.

Primary NAWS Questionnaire

The questionnaire is administered to hired crop agricultural workers 14 years old and older. It contains a household grid, where the education level and migration history of the respondent and each member of the respondent's household are recorded, and an employment grid, where a full year of respondent's employment is detailed. Information on income, assets, legal status, and use of contribution- and needs-based programs is also elicited.

In the employment grid, interviewers record the task and crop for agricultural jobs, type and amount of non-agricultural employment, periods of unemployment, and time spent outside the United States. For the respondent's current agricultural job, information on how the job was obtained, wages and payment method (piece or hourly), employment type (direct hire or labor-contracted) and duration (year-round or seasonal), benefits, availability of water and sanitation, pesticide training, transportation, and housing arrangements is recorded.

Demographic and health information collected via the primary questionnaire includes age, gender, place of birth, marital status, languages spoken, English language ability, participation in education and employment training programs, health history (lifetime), musculoskeletal problems (last 12 months), and quality of and access to health care.

The Agricultural Occupational Injury Supplement

This CDC/NIOSH-sponsored supplement is administered to all NAWS respondents who had a qualifying agricultural occupational injury in the United States in the 12-month period before the date of interview. For each qualifying injury, the respondent is asked how, when and where the injury occurred, the body part(s) injured, where medical treatment was received, how the treatment was paid for, and the number of days the respondent couldn't work or worked at a reduced activity level.

Proposed Occupational Mental Health Supplement

CDC/NIOSH is proposing to add, for one year only, an occupational mental health supplement. The supplement will include four questions each concerning decisions latitude and work limitations, two questions each concerning job demands and job insecurity, and one question each concerning perceived general health and family concerns. In addition, the Center for Epidemiologic Studies Depression Scale (CES-D) Short Form 10 (SF-10), which contains 10 items, would be administered.

II. Review Focus

The Department of Labor is particularly interested in comments which:

- Evaluate whether the proposed collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the agency, including whether the information will have practical utility;
- Evaluate the accuracy of the agency's estimate of the burden of the proposed collection of information, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used;
- Enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and
- Minimize the burden of the collection of information on those who are to respond, including through the use of appropriated automated, electronic, mechanical, or other technological collection techniques or other forms of information technology, e.g., permitting electronic submissions of responses.
