DEFINITIONS

¹Open loop systems are ground heat exchangers in which the heat transfer fluid is part of a larger environment. The most common open loop systems use ground water or surface water as the heat transfer medium.

²Closed loop systems are ground heat exchangers in which the heat transfer fluid is permanently contained in a closed system.

³Direct expansion systems are geothermal heat pump systems in which the refrigerant is circulated in pipes buried in the ground, rather than using a heat transfer fluid, such as water or antifreeze solution in a separate closed loop, and fluid to refrigerant heat exchanger. For the purposes of the ENERGY STAR geothermal heat pump specification, a DX system includes all of the equipment both inside and outside the house. DX systems may be single or multi-speed.
