

Food Defense Survey

Thank you for your participation in our survey. The food industry has a critical role in keeping America's food supply safe. You play an important part in this process and we need your help. The Center for Risk Communication Research is conducting a survey to understand your food defense beliefs and practices.

Your responses to this survey will be kept strictly confidential. All data you provide is being collected and compiled by the Center for Risk Communication Research (CRCR) at the University of Maryland, an independent research center in cooperative agreement with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA). CRCR will provide FDA personnel only with a summary of the data compiled in the course of the study. CRCR will not provide FDA with identifiers that would permit the association of specific responses with a given respondent. This survey is voluntary and you may skip any of the questions you do not want to answer.

This first set of questions will ask you about food defense in general.

Objectives for each Survey Item

- Items 1-4 Assess general knowledge
- Items 5-11 Assess experience with food defense programs
- Items 12-22 Assess experience with ALERT materials
- Items 23-29 Assess information received from the FDA during inspections
- Items 30-36 Assess web-training use and knowledge
- Items 37-41 Hits, Misses, and False Alarms.
For each part of the ALERT initiative (Assure, Look, Employees, Report, Threat) 4 statements are true and in ALERT, 2 are true but not in ALERT, and 2 are false. These items assess knowledge about ALERT.
- Items 42-46 Attitude about ALERT
- Item 47 a-e Perceived severity of an intentional attack on the food supply
- Item 48 a-e Perceived susceptibility of an intentional attack
- Item 49 a-e Perceived barriers to following the ALERT recommendations
- Item 50 a-e Perceived benefits of following the ALERT recommendations
- Item 51 a-e Self-efficacy/Perceived behavioral control for following the ALERT recommendations
- Item 52 a-e Subjective norms about food defense
- Items 53-63 Demographics
- Item 64-65 Comments
