

National Institutes of Health
National Cancer Institute
Bethesda, Maryland 20892

iCLIC

www.webhealthstudy.gov      Special Study Code:

The banner features the text "iCLIC" in a large, white, sans-serif font on a dark blue background. To the right of the text is a white computer mouse cursor icon. Below this, on a white background, is the website URL "www.webhealthstudy.gov" and the text "Special Study Code:" followed by a rectangular input box.

Dear AARP Member,

We would like to ask you to participate in a new evaluation sponsored by the U.S. National Institutes of Health (NIH) and AARP. The name of this study is iCLIC, which stands for the Interactive Comprehensive Lifestyle Interview by Computer study.

Information from this study will add to our knowledge from an existing study called the NIH-AARP Diet and Health Study. That study began in 1995, and more than 500,000 AARP members have participated. (See <http://dietandhealth.cancer.gov> for more information.)

In iCLIC, we ask you to answer online questionnaires about your diet, lifestyle, and health history over the past 24 hours and the past year. You will have 60 to 90 days to complete up to four different questionnaires.

The goal of iCLIC is to evaluate a set of new online questionnaires that are replacing the paper questionnaires you've completed in the past. As Internet communication gets easier, researchers believe that online questionnaires will become a better way to gather scientific information about health concerns.

(more on back)

We would greatly appreciate your participation in this study. To complete the questionnaires, you will need a high-speed Internet connection and an email address. Please refer to the iCLIC instruction card enclosed with this letter for full instructions. As explained on the card, the study website can be found at www.webhealthstudy.gov. Use the Special Study Code on the front of this letter to enter the site.

Once you have consented to participate in the study and answered some information about yourself, you will create your username and password and be presented with your online questionnaire schedule.

If you encounter problems registering or enrolling in the study, please send an email to iCLICStudy@westat.com or call toll-free to 1-888-302-6672 and we will get back to you as soon as we can. Your participation is completely voluntary, and you may withdraw at any time. Thanks again for considering participation in this new way to collect health information!

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Arthur Schatzkin". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large initial "A".

Arthur Schatzkin, M.D., Dr.P.H.

Principal Investigator, iCLIC

(Interactive Comprehensive Lifestyle Interview by Computer Study)

National Institutes of Health
National Cancer Institute
Bethesda, Maryland 20892

www.webhealthstudy.gov      Special Study Code:

Dear NIH-AARP Diet and Health Study Participant,

Thank you for participating in the NIH-AARP Diet and Health Study, which started in 1995. We would like to ask you to join a new evaluation sponsored by the U.S. National Institutes of Health (NIH) and AARP. The name of this study is iCLIC, which stands for the Interactive Comprehensive Lifestyle Interview by Computer study. Information from this study will add to our knowledge from the current NIH-AARP Diet and Health Study. (See <http://dietandhealth.cancer.gov> for more information.)

In iCLIC, we ask you to answer online questionnaires about your diet, lifestyle, and health history over the past 24 hours and the past year. You will have 60 to 90 days to complete up to four different questionnaires.

The goal of iCLIC is to evaluate a set of new online questionnaires that are replacing the paper questionnaires you've completed in the past. As Internet communication gets easier, researchers believe that online questionnaires will become a better way to gather scientific information about health concerns.

(more on back)

We would greatly appreciate your continued participation by joining this study. To complete the questionnaires, you will need a high-speed Internet connection and an email address. Please refer to the iCLIC instruction card enclosed with this letter for full instructions. As explained on the card, the study website can be found at www.webhealthstudy.gov. Use the Special Study Code on the front of this letter to enter the site.

Once you have consented to participate in the study and answered some information about yourself, you will create your username and password and be presented with your online questionnaire schedule.

If you encounter problems registering or enrolling in the study, please send an email to iCLICStudy@westat.com or call toll-free to 1-888-302-6672 and we will get back to you as soon as we can. Your participation is completely voluntary, and you may withdraw at any time. Thanks again for considering participation in this new way to collect health information!

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Arthur Schatzkin". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large initial "A".

Arthur Schatzkin, M.D., Dr.P.H.

Principal Investigator, iCLIC

(Interactive Comprehensive Lifestyle Interview by Computer Study)

National Institutes of Health
National Cancer Institute
Bethesda, Maryland 20892

iCLIC

www.webhealthstudy.gov      Special Study Code:

The banner features the text "iCLIC" in a large, bold, white font on a dark blue background. To the right of the text is a white computer mouse cursor icon. Below the blue background is a white background with the website URL "www.webhealthstudy.gov" and the text "Special Study Code:" followed by a rectangular input box.

Dear AARP Member,

About four weeks ago we sent you a letter inviting you to participate in the Interactive Comprehensive Lifestyle Interview by Computer study, or iCLIC. This is the newest evaluation sponsored by the U.S. National Institutes of Health (NIH) and AARP. If you have already enrolled in iCLIC, thank you! If you haven't signed up, we urge you to do so now. (Please refer to the iCLIC instruction card enclosed with this letter for full instructions.)

In iCLIC, we ask you to answer online questionnaires about your diet, lifestyle, and health history over the past 24 hours and the past year. You will have 60 to 90 days to complete up to four different questionnaires. Information from this study will add to our knowledge from an existing study called the NIH-AARP Diet and Health Study. That study began in 1995, and more than 500,000 AARP members have participated. (See <http://dietandhealth.cancer.gov> for details.)

The goal of iCLIC is to evaluate a set of new online questionnaires that are replacing the paper questionnaires you've completed in the past. As Internet communication gets easier, researchers believe that online questionnaires will become a better way to gather scientific information about health concerns.

(more on back)

We would greatly appreciate your participation by joining iCLIC. To complete the questionnaires, you will need a high-speed Internet connection and an email address. Please refer to the iCLIC instruction card enclosed with this letter for full instructions. As explained on the card, the study website can be found at www.webhealthstudy.gov. Use the Special Study Code on the front of this letter to enter the site.

Once you have consented to participate in the study and answered some information about yourself, you will create your username and password and be presented with your online questionnaire schedule.

If you encounter problems registering or enrolling in the study, please send an email to iCLICStudy@westat.com or call toll-free to 1-888-302-6672 and we will get back to you as soon as we can. Your participation is completely voluntary, and you may withdraw at any time. We will not send you another letter about joining iCLIC, so we hope you can join now. Thanks again for considering participation in this new way to collect health information!

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Arthur Schatzkin". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large initial "A".

Arthur Schatzkin, M.D., Dr.P.H.

Principal Investigator, iCLIC

(Interactive Comprehensive Lifestyle Interview by Computer Study)

National Institutes of Health
National Cancer Institute
Bethesda, Maryland 20892

www.webhealthstudy.gov      Special Study Code:

Dear NIH-AARP Diet and Health Study Participant,

About four weeks ago we sent you a letter inviting you to participate in the Interactive Comprehensive Lifestyle Interview by Computer study, or iCLIC. This is the newest evaluation sponsored by the U.S. National Institutes of Health (NIH) and AARP. We are inviting you since you are already a participant in the NIH-AARP Diet and Health Study, which started in 1995. If you have already enrolled in iCLIC, thank you! If you haven't signed up, we urge you to do so now. (Please refer to the iCLIC instruction card enclosed with this letter for full instructions.)

In iCLIC, we ask you to answer online questionnaires about your diet, lifestyle, and health history over the past 24 hours and the past year. You will have 60 to 90 days to complete up to four different questionnaires. This study will add to our knowledge from the current NIH-AARP Diet and Health Study. (See <http://dietandhealth.cancer.gov> for details.)

The goal of iCLIC is to evaluate a set of new online questionnaires that are replacing the paper questionnaires you've completed in the past. As Internet communication gets easier, researchers believe that online questionnaires will become a better way to gather scientific information about health concerns.

(more on back)

We would greatly appreciate your continued participation by joining iCLIC. To complete the questionnaires, you will need a high-speed Internet connection and an email address. Please refer to the iCLIC instruction card enclosed with this letter for full instructions. As explained on the card, the study website can be found at www.webhealthstudy.gov. Use the Special Study Code on the front of this letter to enter the site.

Once you have consented to participate in the study and answered some information about yourself, you will create your username and password and be presented with your online questionnaire schedule.

If you encounter problems registering or enrolling in the study, please send an email to iCLICStudy@westat.com or call toll-free to 1-888-302-6672 and we will get back to you as soon as we can. Your participation is completely voluntary, and you may withdraw at any time. We will not send you another letter about joining iCLIC, so we hope you can join now. Thanks again for considering participation in this new way to collect health information!

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Arthur Schatzkin". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large initial "A".

Arthur Schatzkin, M.D., Dr.P.H.
Principal Investigator, iCLIC
(Interactive Comprehensive Lifestyle Interview by Computer Study)

601 E Street, NW
Washington, DC 20049

T 202-434-2277
1-888-OUR-AARP
1-888-687-2277
TTY 1-877-434-7598
www.aarp.org

Dear AARP Member:

I am happy to announce that AARP is working with the National Institutes of Health on a very important research project on health behaviors. The Interactive Comprehensive Lifestyle Interview by Computer (iCLIC) study will ask about your diet, lifestyle and health history over the past year. For the first time ever, this type of study will be conducted by computer over the Internet.

I'd like to ask you to think about participating in this research project because I believe it has the potential to increase our understanding of the health and wellness needs of midlife and older adults in the United States and globally. The opportunity to volunteer for the iCLIC study is only being offered to AARP members. Your participation in the study will help make a difference in the lives of millions of Americans.

The accompanying letter from Dr. Arthur Schatzkin of the National Institutes of Health provides more detail about the study and what is involved in participating. To become a participant, please follow the instructions provided by Dr. Schatzkin.

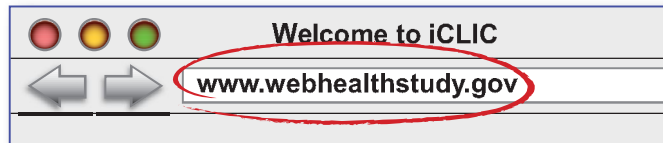

AARP is pleased to be assisting with this important study. I hope you will take the time to participate.

Sincerely,

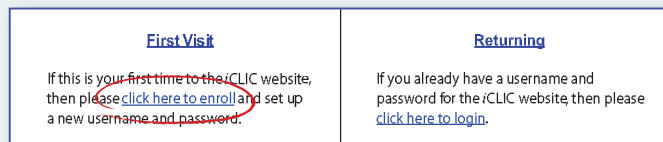

William D. Novelli
Chief Executive Officer

To complete the questionnaires, you will need a high-speed Internet connection and an email address.

1 Enter www.webhealthstudy.gov in your web browser.

2 Select the click here to enroll link on the left-hand side of the screen.

3 Enter your Special Study Code from your invitation letter and click NEXT.

4 Read the consent statement. If you agree to participate, please select "I AGREE."

5 Please provide information about yourself. Remember to click the NEXT button at the bottom of each screen.

6 Choose a Username and Password. Click the NEXT button.

7 Read your activity schedule. Click the NEXT button.

8 To get started right away, click on "Start Now."

Current Survey Items
Questionnaire	Status	Action	Scheduled Date
LHQ	Ready to Start	Start Now
ACT-24	Upcoming		Early January 2009
DHQ	Upcoming		Early January 2009

Thank you for enrolling in the iCLIC Study!

If you have questions or encounter problems, please e-mail us at iCLICStudy@westat.com or call 1-888-302-6672.