CERTIFICATION OF QUALIFYING STATE RELIEF FROM DISABILITIES
PROGRAM (ATF F 3210.12)

A JUSTIFICATION

1. Necessity of Information Collection

On January 8, 2008, the President signed the National Instant Check System Improvement Act of 2007, Public Law 110-180 (NIAA). The NIAA was passed in the wake of the April 2007 shooting tragedy at Virginia Tech. Information about the mental health history of perpetrator at Virginia Tech was not available to the National Instant Background Check System (NICS) that would have enabled it to deny the transfer of the firearms used in the shooting. The NIAA seeks to address the gap in information about prohibiting mental health adjudications and commitments, as well as other records of prohibited persons.

The NIAA authorizes grant programs to support states in their efforts to improve the quality and completeness of criminal record information available to NICS. An applicant state must satisfy certain conditions before being eligible to receive a grant.

The state must provide the U.S. Department of Justice with reasonable estimates of certain categories of available records in the state over a 20 year period. Second, the state must certify to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) that it has implemented a qualifying program permitting person who were adjudicated as a mental defective or committed to a mental institution to apply for relief from the Federal firearms disabilities imposed as a result of the adjudication or commitment.

2. Needs and uses

This form is to be used by a State to certify to the U.S. Department of Justice, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) that it has established a qualifying mental health relief from firearms disabilities program that satisfies certain minimum criteria under the NIAA, Section 105.

3. Use of Information Technology

This form will be available for downloading from the ATF Internet web site. Faxes will not be accepted, and the form must contain the certifying State official's original signature.

4. Efforts to Identify Duplication

ATF uses a uniform subject classification system to identify duplication and to insure that any similar information already available cannot be used or modified for use for the purpose of this information collection.

5. Minimizing Burden on Small Businesses

This collection does not have any impact on small business.

6. Consequences of Not Conducting or less frequent Collection

ATF must provide a means for States to certify that they have a valid relief program in place as it relates to persons prohibited under Title 18, U.S.C., Sections 922(g)(4) and (d) (4) due to mental health adjudications and commitments. Without this certification, the States will not be able to apply for grant funding, which will be used by the States to update their recordkeeping systems related to persons subject to firearms prohibitions. The information provided to NICS by the states will subsequently be used by the FBI National Instant Check System to deny the transfer of firearms to prohibited person(s) and keep guns out of the hands of individuals prohibited by Federal or State laws from receiving or possessing firearms and ammunition. The certification requirement allows the States to show compliance with the requirements of the NICS Improvement Amendments Act of 2007, Public Law 110-180 (NIAA). The consequences of not conducting this collection could result in the transfer of a firearm(s) to persons prohibited by Federal or State laws from receiving or possessing firearms and ammunition.
