

COMPLAINT FORM FOR ALLEGATIONS OF DISCRIMINATION IN PROGRAMS OR ACTIVITIES CONDUCTED BY THE SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

The purpose of this form is to assist you in filing a discrimination complaint with the Social Security Administration (SSA) regarding programs and activities that are conducted by SSA. This form is not intended to be used for complaints about employment with SSA. You are not required to use this form to file a complaint; a letter with the same information is sufficient. However, if you file a complaint by letter, you must include the same information that is requested in the form.

Complaints of discrimination usually must be filed within 180 days of the action you allege to have been based on discrimination. If the action took place more than 180 days ago, you must explain why you waited to file the complaint. SSA will waive the 180-day requirement in cases where we believe there was good cause (extenuating circumstances) for the late filing.

If you believe that SSA, an SSA employee, an SSA contractor, or an agent of SSA discriminated against you, someone you know, or a class of people in connection with an SSA program or activity, and you believe that the discrimination was based on race, color, national origin (including English language ability), religion, sex, sexual orientation, age, disability, or in retaliation for your having participated in a proceeding under this complaint process, you may file a complaint or have a representative file a complaint on your behalf. You may also file a complaint if you believe that SSA discriminated on the basis of status as a parent in education or training programs or activities conducted by SSA. To file a complaint, please mail a completed and signed discrimination complaint form and a signed consent and release form to:

Social Security Administration
Civil Rights Complaint Adjudication Office
P.O. Box 17788
Baltimore, MD 21235-7788

If you wish to file a complaint, or if you have questions about a complaint you have already filed, you may write to us at the above address or you may call us on the following toll-free number: (866) 574-0374. Persons who file discrimination complaints or who participate in a complaint filed by another are protected from intimidation or retaliation for having taken actions to ensure nondiscrimination.

3B. Does your complaint concern employment with SSA? If so, you should not use this form, but you must contact an SSA (EEO) Counselor within 45 days of the action that you believe to be discriminatory.

The procedure for filing a complaint of employment discrimination is described at 29 C.F.R. Part 1614. To get in touch with an EEO Counselor, you may call SSA's Office of Civil Rights and Equal Opportunity on the following toll-free number: (866) 744-0374.

3C. Does your complaint concern a decision that was made on a claim you filed for Social Security benefits? If you disagree with a decision that was made on a claim you filed for benefits, you must appeal that decision according to the procedure described in the notice of appeal rights that accompanied the decision. If you believe the decision was based on discrimination, you may file a complaint of discrimination using this form, but even if we find that you were discriminated against, that would not mean that the decision on your claim for benefits would change. A decision can still be a correct application of the law even if the decision-maker was biased. The only way to get the benefits decision changed is to file an appeal of that decision.

4. To the best of your recollection, on what date(s) did the alleged discrimination take place?

5. Complaints must generally be filed within 180 days of the alleged discrimination. If the date of discrimination listed above is more than 180 days ago, you may request a waiver of the time limit for filing a complaint. NOTICE ABOUT INVESTIGATORY USES OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

NOTICE OF COMPLAINANT AND INTERVIEWEE RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES

Complainants and individuals who cooperate in an investigation by the Social Security Administration (SSA) into an allegation of discrimination are afforded certain rights and protections. This brief description will provide you with an overview of these rights and protections.

- No SSA employee, agent, or contractor may intimidate, threaten, coerce, or discriminate against any individual because he or she has made a complaint, provided a statement, or assisted or participated in any manner in an investigation or other proceeding regarding a complaint of discrimination involving programs or activities conducted by SSA.
- Information obtained from the complainant or any other individual regarding a complaint of discrimination is maintained in SSA's civil rights complaint files. Information in these files may be exempt from disclosure under the Privacy Act or under the Freedom of Information Act ("FOIA") if release of such information would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

There are two laws governing personal information submitted to any Federal agency, including SSA: The Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. § 552a), and the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. § 552).

THE PRIVACY ACT protects individuals from misuse of personal information held by the Federal Government. The law applies to records that are kept and that can be located by the individual's name or Social Security number or some other personal identifier. Persons who submit information to SSA in connection with a complaint of discrimination involving programs or activities conducted by SSA should know that:

- SSA will investigate complaints of discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin (including complaints based on limited ability to speak English), sex, sexual orientation, disability, age, religion, and retaliation for having participated in a proceeding under this complaint process. SSA will also investigate complaints of discrimination on the basis of status as a parent in education and training programs and activities conducted by SSA.
- Information that SSA collects about a complaint of discrimination is analyzed by authorized personnel within SSA. The information collected may include information contained in files SSA maintains on claims for benefits, hearing transcripts, personnel records, and other personal information. SSA staff may need to reveal certain information collected in connection with a complaint to persons inside and outside of SSA in the course of verifying facts or gathering new facts to develop a basis for making a decision on whether a civil rights violation occurred. SSA may also be required to reveal certain information collected in connection with a complaint to any individual who requests it under the provisions of FOIA. (See next section.)

- Personal information provided by an individual will be used only for the specific purpose for which it was submitted, that is for authorized civil rights investigation and compliance activities. Except when required by law and for certain routine uses authorized under the Privacy Act, SSA will not release information collected in connection with a complaint of discrimination to any person or entity outside SSA unless the individual who supplied the information submits a written consent to its release. One of these exceptions is when release is required under FOIA. (See below.)
- No law requires a complainant to give personal information to SSA about an alleged act of discrimination in the conduct of an SSA program or activity, and SSA will not impose sanctions on an individual who declines to provide information related to the complaint. However, if SSA is unable to obtain information it needs to investigate or decide an allegation of discrimination, it may be necessary to close the investigation.
- The Privacy Act permits certain types of systems of records to be exempt from some of its requirements, including the provisions related to access to records. SSA may deny a complainant access to the files compiled during the investigation of his or her civil rights complaint. Complaint files are exempt in order to aid negotiations in resolving civil rights issues and to encourage individuals and entities to furnish information essential to the investigation.
- SSA does not reveal the name of or other identifying information about an individual who has filed a complaint or participated in an investigation unless it is necessary for the completion of an investigation or an enforcement proceeding, or unless such information is required to be disclosed under FOIA or the Privacy Act. SSA will keep the identity of complainants confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the civil rights laws and SSA policies related to nondiscrimination, or unless disclosure is required under FOIA or the Privacy Act, or otherwise required by law.

The Freedom of Information Act, or “FOIA” gives the public access to certain files and records of the Federal Government. Individuals can obtain items from many categories of records of the Government, not just materials that apply to them personally. SSA must honor requests under FOIA, with some exceptions. SSA generally is not required to release documents collected during an investigation or enforcement proceeding if the release could have an adverse effect on the ability of the agency to do its job. Also, any Federal agency may refuse a request for records compiled for law enforcement purposes if their release could be an “unwarranted invasion of privacy” of the individual. Requests for other records, such as personnel and medical files, may be denied where the disclosure would be a “clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy.”
