Assets 25

- Assets 25 eligibility: Rs who turned 25 and never completed the Assets 25 section will get Assets 25, but will not go through the general housing questions since the housing questions are already contained in the age 25 section. From the next round, they will complete the general housing questions and the age 30 asset questions (when applicable).
- In the special case where Rs are eligible for both the age 25 and the age 30 sections, they will go through the general housing questions and age 30 assets questions only. Since it would be 5 years past the time they turned age 25, the current assets they report will reflect their asset holdings at age 30 rather than 25.
- We will update YAST25-NEW1 for Round 14 eligibility.

Assets 30

- Assets will begin with general housing questions for all respondents, except those who turned 25 but have not completed the Assets 25 section in a prior round.

Program Participation

This section has been restructured for Round 14. Here is an overview of the changes to the section.

- We will provide complete program participation event history data through September 30, 2010. Round 14 and Round 15 respondents who do not complete the Round 13 interview will complete the Round 13 program participation section. Their data will be used to construct the traditional event history variables through September 30, 2010, and then to generate summary variables parallel to the Rounds 14 and 15 data after that time. No event history variables will be prepared for dates after September 30, 2010; a new set of created variables may need to be defined. No edits will be required to accommodate the prior-round NIRs beginning in Round 16.
- An abbreviated program participation section is detailed below.

- I do not intend to follow every little rule that others make up.
  - When I was in school, I used to break rules quite regularly.
  - I support long-established rules and traditions.

YTEL-77

Now I have another kind of question. Suppose that you are the only income earner in the family, but that your current job is ending. You have to choose between two new jobs. The first job would guarantee your current family income for life. The second job is also guaranteed for life and possibly better paying, but the income is less certain. There is a 50-50 chance that the second job will double your current family income for life and a 50-50 chance that it will cut your current family income by a third for life.

Which job would you take: the first job or the second job?

First job [Go to Risk-3]
Second job [Go to Risk-2]

Default: Interviewer Remarks

Interviewer remarks

Changes to questions with showcards, lists and references to computer screens:

These changes are being made to make the questionnaire more phone-friendly.

1. (a) References to showcards that say “ Hand R showcard “ will need to be changed to “Refer to showcard “

(b) We will give the interviewer an option to indicate the mode of the interview at the beginning of the interview and set up a preload. For in-person interviews question wording in the questions which say “Please look at this card/showcard” will appear and these will not show up for phone interviews.

- All the questions listed below will all need wording changed as in 1 (a).
- All questions listed below from YSCH, YINC, YAST25, YPRG also have the sentence “Please look at this card” or “Please look at this showcard” which will not appear for phone cases [1(b)].

The NLSY97 design team works to maintain a relatively constant respondent burden across rounds by balancing all additions and subtractions from the questionnaire. A series of questions for military veterans on their job transitions as well as questions on workplace injuries and fertility expectations will only be asked of those who did not participate in Round 13. Questions on the respondent's position on the ladder of life have also been removed. The program participation section has been substantially shortened. The planned rotation has been slightly modified for the self administered and fertility questions, which will lead to shorter expected timings for Round 14. The assets section in Round 14 has been redesigned for respondents who turn 30. Housing questions for respondents who are not eligible for the full assets section has been moved from the household information to the assets section. The Round 14 questionnaire also includes additions to Round 13 content. The Tell Us What You Think section will contain questions about risk preferences and questions about the respondent's favorite person. Two new questions have been added to the income section to obtain information on the respondent's income from government programs. The political participation section is slated for Round 14. Altogether, we expect the design edits to the questionnaire in Round 14 to lead to no significant change in the respondent burden.
