INTRODUCTION

Good morning/afternoon/evening. My name is _____, and I'm working with [NAME OF FACILITY] in [LOCATION]. I'm calling today on behalf of the National Cancer Institute or NCI. NCI is conducting a study on cancer researchers' opinions and perspectives about topics related to cancer. We are looking for people to take part in small discussion groups through a telephone conference call. We are not selling any products or services. Everyone who is eligible and participates will be paid [$amount] as a thank you for your time.

Specifically, we are interested in learning more about cancer researchers' reactions to some early ideas we are considering for NCI's website, cancer.gov. We will also ask about the kinds of resources, web sites, or collaborative tools you have found helpful in doing your research, seeking funding, and keeping up with the work of other researchers.

The discussion groups will be held on [Dates] and the conference call will last no more than one hour. I would like to ask you some questions to see if there is a discussion group that you could join. These questions will only take a few moments to answer. Do you have a few moments now to answer a few questions?

[If they do not have time now, ask if there is a time when they would be able to talk or a better phone number to use]

INVITE TO INTERVIEW

Thank you for answering my questions. As I mentioned, the National Cancer Institute is interested in learning more about cancer researchers' reactions to some early ideas we are considering for NCI's website, cancer.gov. We will ask about the kinds of resources, web sites, or collaborative tools you have found helpful in doing your research, seeking funding, and keeping up with the work of other researchers.

To compensate you for your time, you will be mailed a check for $100 after participating in the discussion group. This is not a sales effort of any kind and no one will call on you as a result of your participation.

I would like to invite you to participate in a telephone discussion group with two or three other cancer researchers and a moderator. The discussions will last about one hour. Groups are scheduled to take place on [Date] at [Time], and you will need to be in front of a computer during the call. We will send you a meeting invitation using GoToMeeting. Can we schedule your participation?

Before we hang up, let me get the correct spelling of your name, your address so we can mail you your check, email address, and phone numbers so we can give you a reminder call the day of the group. You will receive an email today confirming your scheduled participation, along with the toll-free conference call-in information for the discussion. Prior to the discussion, we will send you an email with some information for you to refer to on the call. We will also send you a GoToMeeting test invitation. This will allow us to test out the connection and troubleshoot as needed before the actual discussion. When would be a good time for us to test the connection with you?
