

The overall time burden has decreased, although the number of expected applicants remains the same. These estimated burden hours were calculated based on project input from experience in using the form and collecting the necessary performance data over several years, the web-based grants management, and historical information and feedback regarding the actual length for sponsor organizations to prepare and submit previous submissions. The increased use of the eGrants electronic system also allows for more efficiencies in completing and submitting applications.