The National Center for State Courts, in collaboration with the Bureau of Justice Statistics, is updating State Court Organization with essential reference information about the state courts. Since the first publication in 1980, State Court Organization (SCO) has been one of the most widely used practical resources available to COSCA members and to the state court community generally, as well as to policymakers, researchers, the media, educators, and the public. The current update incorporates questions that have been asked consistently since the first SCO as well as asks new questions intended to elicit information about emerging issues.
