Subject CSPA Feedback on DfE's SDSI Program

History:  This message has been replied to.

Ms. Connor, the Consumer Specialty Products Association (CSPA) is the premier trade association representing the interests of approximately 240 companies engaged in the manufacture, formulation, distribution and sale of approximately $80 billion annually in the U.S. of hundreds of familiar consumer products that help household and institutional customers create cleaner and healthier environments. Our products include disinfectants that kill germs in homes, hospitals and restaurants; candles, and fragrances and air fresheners that eliminate odors; pest management products for home, garden and pets; cleaning products and polishes for use throughout the home and institutions; products used to protect and improve the performance and appearance of automobiles; aerosol products and a host of other products used every day. Given this broad array of products, we are very interested in the programs administered by the U.S. EPA Design for the Environment and are pleased to provide feedback on the SDSI program.

CSPA believes that the estimates in the ICR regarding the burden of the proposed collection of information and the assumptions upon which they are based are reasonable and accurate. If additional information would be helpful, I would be pleased to provide it.
