

External Stakeholder Feedback on NSF Communications

Draft version of proposed survey follows:

National Science Foundation
WHERE DISCOVERIES BEGIN

External Stakeholder Feedback on NSF Communications

Thank you for taking the time to participate in this survey on NSF communications. Your views are important to helping NSF better assess the strengths and shortcomings of our communications and identify areas needing improvement.

We are seeking your comments on both formal and informal communications—which could be face-to-face or remote, oral or written, live or recorded. We also are very interested in hearing your views on NSF's communications systems and tools such as the NSF website, eJacket, FASTLANE, etc. Again, thank you for participating in this effort and for your comments.

Please enter your feedback in the question boxes below.

- 1. When considering NSF communications with the science and engineering community and other external NSF stakeholders, what works well?
- 2. What aspects of NSF communications do not work well, or as well as you would like?
- 3. How can NSF improve communications between NSF and the science and engineering community and other external stakeholders?
- 4. Optional: If you are willing, please provide your name and/or advisory committee/review panel affiliation.
Name:
Advisory Committee/Review Panel:

Thank You
for participating and helping to improve communications at NSF!

Done Internet 100%