Instructions and Definitions Page

For purposes of this survey include dropout prevention programs or services offered by your district or by any of the schools in your district.

Dropout prevention services or programs are those that are intended to increase the rate at which students are staying in school, progressing toward graduation, or earning a high school credential.

- An advisement class is one that is held regularly (e.g., weekly) and may include lessons on organizational and study skills, information on courses needed for graduation, and information about careers and college preparation.
- Alternative schools and programs are designed to address the needs of students that typically cannot be met in regular schools. The students who attend alternative schools and programs are typically at risk of educational failure (as indicated by poor grades, truancy, disruptive behavior, pregnancy, or similar factors associated with temporary or permanent withdrawal from school).
- Career/technical high schools are those that provide formal preparation for semiskilled, skilled, technical, or professional occupations. For purposes of this survey, please include career/technical high schools that are available to students in your district and are administered by either your district or by a regional entity.
- Credit recovery courses/programs are opportunities allowing students to recover course credits from classes they have missed or failed.
- Decelerated curriculum refers to curriculum that is spread over a longer period of time than a regular course. An example of decelerated curriculum is an Algebra 1 course that is spread over 2 years or 2 class periods for an entire year. This definition applies to any curriculum that is decelerated specifically to meet the needs of students who may be at risk of failing a course.
- Electronic warning system is an electronic database used to identify students who may be at risk of dropping out. The system includes multiple pieces of student information, such as attendance, grades, and behavioral referrals, one or more of which may be used to identify at-risk students.
- Formal program to reduce behavioral problems refers to a systematic program that is specifically designed to reduce behavioral problems and is implemented at the classroom or school level.
- Guided study hall/academic support period is typically for students who are struggling academically; teachers assist students by helping them manage their time and their assignments, and either provide or get them the academic support/tutoring that they need to complete homework and be successful in their classes. Teachers may also provide academic support in specific academic areas such as math, reading, or social studies.
- Students who are highly likely to drop out of school may include those with multiple risk factors, such as many unexcused absences, academic failure, or reoccurring behavior that warrants suspension or expulsion, or those who provide other strong indications that they are dropping out.
- Job training and GED combination programs are programs that combine both job training and GED preparation courses. This includes programs such as Job Corps or the Army/National Guard GED program or other similar programs.
- Job training programs are those that provide formal preparation for semiskilled, skilled, or technical occupations. These programs do not include GED preparation or result in a high school diploma.
- Juvenile Assessment Center is a centralized receiving, processing, and intervention facility that brings together community services for youth and families who have, or are likely to have, contact with the legal system.
- A remediation class is any class intended to bring students who are academically below grade level up to proficiency.
- Self-paced courses/independent study are opportunities for students to work through a course at their own pace, for example, through a computer-based program or packets of work.
- Summer bridge programs are programs designed to provide assistance to students before transitioning from one instructional level school to another (e.g., from middle school to high school). These programs may include, but are not limited to, providing academic support, remedial opportunities, study skills, and opportunities to connect to teachers or peers at the new school.

Definitions are provided on the instructions and definitions page for all items marked with an asterisk (*).
