- Product 4B.--For each quarter during the period, report data for Product 4A, but only for your highest-volume SKU falling within this product definition. Also identify the specific SKU number, and supply a specification sheet for that SKU.
- Product 5A.--Top loading, high efficiency washer; rated DOE capacity of greater than or equal to 4.2 cubic feet; steam cycle(s) not included; water heater included; lid includes glass material; any non-white finish. Report data for all your SKUs that fall under this definition, and supply a specification sheet for each.
- Product 5B.--For each quarter during the period, report data for Product 5A, but only for your highest-volume SKU falling within this product definition. Also identify the specific SKU number, and supply a specification sheet for that SKU.

Please note that total dollar values should be f.o.b., U.S. point of shipment and should not include U.S.-inland transportation costs.

Report the U.S. f.o.b. sales value and quantity on an invoice basis (i.e., the quantity-weighted total of the prices indicated on the invoice for the product in question), and net of returns in two ways:

First, report the quarterly sales prices net of direct discounts (i.e., all discounts, incentives, allowances, rebates, promotional amount, cash incentives for retail sales personnel (SPIFFs) or other sales support, and/or any other form of payment or allowance to a retailer) that are tied to sales of the specific large residential washer(s) for which pricing data are requested, whether or not such discounts are given on the sales price to the customer or are in the form of a post-sale discount, rebate or other type of sales support after the customer resells the product to its customer. In reporting these sales values, do not deduct discounts, incentives, allowances, rebates and other sales support that are not product-specific in nature.

And second, report quarterly sales prices net of discounts described in the paragraph immediately above and also net of indirect discounts (i.e., any discounts, incentives, allowances, rebates, promotional amount, cash incentives for retail sales personnel (SPIFFs) or other sales support, and/or any other form of payment or allowance to a retailer) that, while not specifically tied to the products in question, are properly allocable to sales of such products because sales of such products were part of the basis on which the discount, incentive, allowance, etc. was given. In each case, the basis for the allocation of these allocated discounts, rebates, etc. should be the value of sales of the pricing product at issue as a percentage of the value of all the products sold by your firm to a customer that also qualified for the same discount, rebate, etc. Thus, for example, the value of a discount given to a customer because it reached an annual large residential washer sales target would be allocated over large residential washer sales to that customer.

Also deduct any U.S. freight costs to your customers' receiving points that were absorbed by your firm (i.e., not charged to your customers).

In reporting these sales values, do not deduct discounts, incentives, allowances, rebates and other sales support that are not product-specific in nature.

⁵ Report the U.S. f.o.b. sales value net of returns, and net of direct discounts (see note 4 above) and net of indirect discounts (i.e., any discounts, incentives, allowances, rebates, promotional amount, cash incentives for retail sales personnel (SPIFFs) or other sales support, and/or any other form of payment or allowance to a retailer) that, while not specifically tied to the products in question, are properly allocable to sales of such products because sales of such products were part of the basis on which the discount, incentive, allowance, etc. was given. In each case, the basis for the allocation of these allocated discounts, rebates, etc. should be the value of sales of the pricing product at issue as a percentage of the value of all the products sold by your firm to a customer that also qualified for the same discount, rebate, etc. Thus, for example, the value of a discount given to a customer because it reached an annual large residential washer sales target would be allocated over large residential washer sales to that customer.
