GENERAL INFORMATION

Background.-- On April 12, 1991, the Department of Commerce issued an antidumping duty order and a countervailing duty order on imports of fresh and chilled Atlantic salmon from Norway (56 F.R. 14920 and 14921). On January 3, 2011, the Commission instituted a review pursuant to section 751(c) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. § 1675(c)) (the Act) to determine whether revocation of the orders would be likely to lead to continuation or recurrence of material injury to the domestic industry within a reasonably foreseeable time (76 F.R. 166). If the Commission makes an affirmative determination, the order will remain in place. If the Commission makes a negative determination, the Department of Commerce will revoke the order.

Questionnaires and other information pertinent to these reviews are available at http://www.usitc.gov/trade_remedy/731_ad_701_cvd/investigations/2011/salmon/reviewphase.htm. DEFINITIONS

Product.-- Fresh and chilled Atlantic salmon.--The product covered by the orders in these reviews is the species Atlantic salmon (Salmon salar) marketed as specified herein; the order excludes all other species of salmon: Danube salmon, Chinook (also called "king" or "quinnat"), Coho ("silver"), Sockeye ("redfish" or "blueback"), Humpback ("pink") and Chum ("dog"). The subject Atlantic salmon is a whole or nearly-whole fish, typically (but not necessarily) marketed gutted, and cleaned, with the head on. The subject merchandise is typically packed in fresh-water ice ("chilled"). Excluded from the subject merchandise are fillets, steaks and other cuts of Atlantic salmon. Also excluded are frozen, canned, smoked or otherwise processed Atlantic salmon. Atlantic salmon is provided for under statistical reporting numbers 0302.12.0003 and 0302.12.0004 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (HTS).

Atlantic salmon proceed through several stages of development and production prior to being marketed as dressed fresh and chilled Atlantic salmon, including eyed eggs, fry, smolt, and round (adult):

Eyed eggs.--Atlantic salmon eggs are generally stripped from brood stock and fertilized around November of each year. These "green eggs" are placed in an incubator and develop eyes (become "eyed eggs") during the following January. The eyed eggs hatch within a month and tiny fish-like "alevin" emerge, each living off an attached yolk sac.

Fry.--Within another month, the yolk sac is consumed and juvenile markings appear. At this "fry" stage feeding begins, and within several more months the fish is transferred from the incubator tank to a large freshwater "grow-out" tank. Over the summer the fry grow quickly and by the fall they reach the size referred to as "parr".

Smolt.--In their second spring, Atlantic salmon lose their juvenile markings and develop a silvery skin ("smoltify"). As smolt, they may be transferred to salt water "cages" or "pens" where they mature into adult Atlantic salmon.

Ungutted ("round") adult Atlantic salmon (round Atlantic salmon).--Atlantic salmon typically reach marketable adult size in about three years (after their second summer in salt water). The fish are taken from the saltwater cages ("harvested") and generally killed and drained of blood ("bled") at or near the cage site.

Dressed salmon.--Atlantic salmon that has been eviscerated ("gutted"), cleaned, and packed in freshwater ice (chilled), with the head on.

Firm.--An individual proprietorship, partnership, joint venture, association, corporation (including any subsidiary corporation), business trust, cooperative, trustee in bankruptcy, or receiver under decree of any court.

Related firm.--A firm that your firm solely or jointly owned, managed, or otherwise controlled; a firm that solely or jointly owned, managed, or otherwise controlled your firm; and/or a firm that was solely or jointly owned, managed, or otherwise controlled by a firm that also solely or jointly owned, managed, or otherwise controlled your firm.
