U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission

Survey of Nursery Products

- ▶ The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission is interested in learning about how U.S. households think about and use different types of children's products in their homes. We will follow-up with a sample of households to get their thoughts on the children's products they have used previously or currently have in their homes. Return this form even if there are no children younger than 6 living at this address.

1. Are there any infants, toddlers, or children living at this address?

- Yes
- No → go to box A, at bottom of the next page

2. Are any of the children living at this address younger than 6 years old?

- Yes
- No → go to box A, at bottom of the next page

3. Please tell us the first name or initials of the adult living at this address who is most familiar with children's products in your home. We may follow-up with this person to find out more about the children's products in your home, if this address is selected to participate in the survey.
