

Small Business Lending Plan Guide

The U.S. Department of the Treasury intends that funding provided through the Small Business Lending Fund be used to support small business lending in a manner consistent with safe and sound operations. Each institution applying to participate in the Fund must submit a small business lending plan to its appropriate federal banking agency, and, if state chartered, its appropriate state banking regulator.

Your institution should send its lending plan to its appropriate regulator(s) using the directions listed on the attached contact information page. Your institution should submit its lending plan to its regulator(s) at the same time it submits its Small Business Lending Fund application to Treasury. The lending plan should not be sent to Treasury.

Lending plans will be deemed confidential supervisory information (per P.L. 111-247, section 4103(d)(1)(E)). Individual bank lending plans will not be disclosed. Information contained in the lending plan will be used only in the context of the Small Business Lending Fund. The lending plan will not substitute for any other supervisory request for information or required filing.

An institution's performance will be measured through the dividend or interest rate it pays for funding from the Small Business Lending Fund. Dividend or interest rate adjustments will be determined by each bank's percentage increase in qualified small business lending over its "baseline" level rather than on information provided in the lending plan.

For general questions, please call the Small Business Lending Fund information line at 888-832-1147 (Monday-Friday, 9:00 AM-7:00 PM ET). For communications pertaining to a specific institution, please email SBLFinstitutions@do.treas.gov, a confidential email address.

How to Complete a Small Business Lending Plan

The lending plan should:

1. Address the Needs of Small Businesses

The lending plan should describe how your institution intends to use funding from the Small Business Lending Fund to address the needs of small businesses in the communities it serves. Your institution should provide a description of the basis for its lending goals and how it intends to achieve these goals.

The lending plan should explain why the projected increase in small business lending is reasonable in the context of the size of your institution and the market it serves. To the extent practicable, please include a description of the types of loans anticipated and customers served.

2. Specify the Projected Increase in Small Business Lending

The lending plan should include the increase in qualified small business lending (as defined in the Fund's summary of terms) that your institution expects to achieve two years after the investment. It is acceptable to provide a projected range.

While this projection should be based upon your institution's estimate of qualified small business lending, your institution does not need to formally calculate such lending at the time of application. Each bank will be required to calculate such lending only as part of the closing process, after receiving preliminary approval for participation in the Fund. Prior to closing, your institution will be asked to revalidate the projection provided in this lending plan on the basis of its formal calculation of qualified small business lending.

The lending plan is not intended to be an official business plan in the sense of those submitted to your institution's primary federal regulator. As a result, Treasury does not require the submission of a pro forma income statement or balance sheet.

3. Provide for Community Outreach

The Small Business Jobs Act of 2010 requires banks participating in the Small Business Lending Fund to provide outreach and advertising describing the availability and application process for receiving small business loans.
