Hi Petunia,

Attached are the revised documents with comments included. The amount for the annual federal costs does not match with the supporting statement because this is the first GenIC for this ICR. So the overall costs are higher than the amount listed in this ICR. For the screen shots, we are using a contractor to do this research for us and since the contractor does not have the software to run these tasks, we will be using a usability lab for the in-person testing that has the specialized equipment and software required to do the Tobii testing. Therefore, we will not have this information until the dates of the actual testing (when all parties are together to produce those images using the HHE Program's website, the contractor's testing plan, and the usability lab's software and equipment).

If you have any questions, please let me know.

Thanks,

Tami Sawyer

Hi Tamela,

In follow-up to our discussion this morning, I am attaching my review report for this request. See attachments. Do you have screenshots of the actual testing? Please contact me if you have questions.

Thanks,
