

Let us Introduce Ourselves!

Parental Mental Health Study

- Are you a new or expectant parent?
- Do you want to be part of a short telephone research study?
- Answers will be kept confidential.
- You will receive a monetary incentive as a token of appreciation for your participation.

Contact us at
1-855-NCS-4ALL

or on the web at worcester.nationalchildrensstudy.gov

Parental Mental Health Study

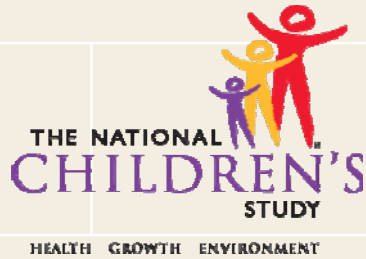

222 Maple Avenue
 Shrewsbury, MA 01545

1-855-NCS-4ALL

worcester.nationalchildrensstudy.gov

What is the Parental Mental Health Study?

The Parental Mental Health Study (PMHS) works to help the National Children's Study (NCS) find the best way to ask questions about emotions, coping, and substance use in birth mothers and fathers. This information will be used to determine which survey to use in the ongoing National Children's Study (NCS).

PMH Staff Coming Soon to a Location Near You!

Check our website for a schedule of when and where Our NCS staff will be in your community!

worchester.nationalchildrensstudy.gov

Who Can Participate? >>>

- Expectant parents 18 and older
- New parents who gave birth in the past 4 weeks 18 and older
- English Speaking

What Will Participants Be Asked to Do? >>>

- You will be asked to participate in a 10 minute telephone interview that asks questions regarding your age, sex, where you live, education level, income and how your pregnancy is going.
- There will also be questions about your health, and if or how often you may feel sad, angry or worried and about substance use.
- Some participants will receive a second phone call with an interview that will last approximately 30 minutes. The type of questions will be similar to the 10 minute telephone interview.

- All answers will be kept confidential!
- You will receive a monetary token of appreciation for your time.

How Do I Get Involved? >>>

Call 1-855-NCS-4ALL

Or

Go To Our Website at

worchester.nationalchildrensstudy.gov

The Parental Mental Health Study is a study under the umbrella of the National Children's Study (NCS). The NCS is the largest long-term study of children's health ever done in the United States, and will include approximately 100,000 children enrolled before birth up to age 21. The Study will look at how children's health is affected by a number of factors including their family health history and the places where they live, learn, and play.

Approved UMass Medical School IRB

Let us Introduce Ourselves!

Parental Mental Health Study

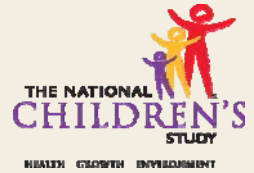

- Are you a new or expectant parent?
- Do you want to be part of a short telephone research study?
- Answers will be kept confidential.
- You will receive a monetary incentive as a token of appreciation of your participation.

Contact us at
1-855-NCS-4ALL

or on the web at worchester.nationalchildrensstudy.gov

222 Maple Avenue
 Shrewsbury, MA 01545

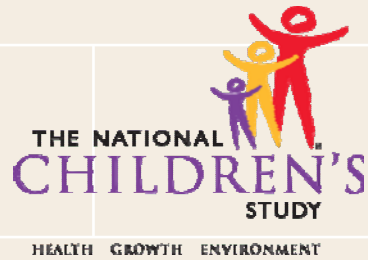

Parental Mental Health Study

1-855-NCS-4ALL

worchester.nationalchildrensstudy.gov

What is the Parental Mental Health Study?

The Parental Mental Health Study (PMHS) works to help the National Children's Study (NCS) find the best way to ask questions about emotions, coping, and substance use in birth mothers and fathers. This information will be used to determine which survey to use in the ongoing National Children's Study (NCS).

Who Can Participate? >>>

- Expectant parents 18 and older
- New parents who gave birth in the past 4 weeks 18 and older
- English Speaking

What Will Participants Be Asked to Do? >>>

- You will be asked to participate in a 10 minute telephone interview that asks questions regarding your age, sex, where you live, education level, income and how your pregnancy is going.
- There will also be questions about your health, and if or how often you may feel sad, angry, or worried and about substance use.
- Some participants will receive a second phone call with an interview that will last approximately 30 minutes. The type of questions will be similar to the 10 minute telephone interview.

- All answers will be kept confidential!
- You will receive a monetary token of appreciation for your time.

How Do I Get Involved? >>>

Call 1-855-NCS-4ALL

Or

Go To Our Website at

worcester.nationalchildrensstudy.gov

PMH Staff Coming Soon to a Location Near You!

Check our website for a schedule of when and where Our NCS staff will be in your community!

worcester.nationalchildrensstudy.gov

The Parental Mental Health Study is a study under the umbrella of the National Children's Study (NCS). The NCS is the largest long-term study of children's health ever done in the United States, and will include approximately 100,000 children enrolled before birth up to age 21. The Study will look at how children's health is affected by a number of factors including their family health history and the places where they live, learn, and play.

Approved UMass Medical School IRB