

Prepaid Account Disclosures: Interviewer Guide for User Testing

Introduction (5 minutes)

My name is _____ and I work for a company called ICF International. We are a research company that conducts interviews and focus groups on behalf of different organizations across the country. For this specific project, we are working on behalf of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. The Bureau is an agency in the Federal government whose goal is to make markets for consumer financial products and services work better for Americans. Above all, this means ensuring that consumers get the information they need to make financial decisions. Today, we are going to be talking about several topics related to prepaid accounts. I want to be clear that I am not an expert in this topic—you can ask me questions, but I may not be able to answer them. This interview will take about 90 minutes, and you may take a break and step out at any time.

Before we begin, did you have an opportunity to read and sign the informed consent document? Do you have any questions about it?

I'd like to remind you of a few things that were on that document.

- We will be videotaping this discussion, to make sure we don't miss anything that you say.
- Behind the glass, there are people observing this interview from both the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau and my company, ICF International.
- Everything that you say in this discussion will be private. Your name will never be used in any of our reports.
- Responding to the questions I ask is completely voluntary. You have the right to not answer any question that you do not wish to answer.
- If you have not already done so, please read the Privacy Act Statement that has been provided in hard copy. (See Privacy Act Statement at end of document.)

Do you have any questions before we begin?

Today we are going to discuss "prepaid cards." I want to start by defining what I mean by a prepaid card to make sure we are on the same page. What I mean by a prepaid card is a card that you can store money on, that you can use to make purchases and get cash from ATMs, and that you can reload with money. To be clear, a prepaid card is not the same as a traditional debit card linked to a bank account. A bank account debit card is linked to your checking or savings account; a prepaid card is not. Instead, you pay in advance to load funds onto a prepaid card, and then use the money you have loaded onto the card. Do you have any questions about what I mean by "prepaid card"? Great.

I. Background (15 minutes)

1. How many prepaid cards do you currently have?
 - a. What brand(s) of prepaid card(s) do you have?
 - i. When did you purchase your prepaid card(s)?

 1. If participant has opted in to the overdraft program, How does it work? Are you charged a fee for using the overdraft program? If yes, How much is the fee? How many times have you paid the fee associated with your prepaid card's overdraft program?

Liability and Protections

9. What is FDIC insurance? Does it relate to your prepaid card(s)? If yes, how?
10. If participant knows what FDIC insurance is and that it might apply to their account, Would it matter to you whether or not you had FDIC insurance for the funds stored in your prepaid card account? Why or why not?
11. If a purchase you did not make was charged to your prepaid card account, would you have any way of getting that money back?
 - a. Why or why not?
 - b. How did you know?
 - c. If yes, What is the process to get your money back? How long would it take?
 - d. Would it make any difference whether or not you had registered your prepaid card?

II. Short-Form Disclosures for Prepaid Accounts (30 minutes¹)

I would like you to imagine that you are in a retail store, such as a supermarket or drugstore, and are planning to purchase a prepaid card. You pick up a prepaid card package, and on the back of the package you see a form with some information. I'm going to hand you a copy of the form you see on the back of the package, and then I am going to ask you some questions about the information in that form.

Your comments and feedback will help the team improve the form. I did not design the form, so please do not feel like you have to hold back on your thoughts to be polite to me. We're interested in both your positive and negative reactions to the designs. Difficulties you may run into reflect issues with the designs, not your skills or abilities. Please keep in mind that I am not testing you or your knowledge. Rather, you are helping us to see how we can improve this experience.

I am interested in your thoughts and reactions as we proceed. This is important because I will hear your replies to my questions, but I won't know the reasons behind your replies. So I need your help. For the rest of this interview, I would like you to "think aloud." That is, I would like you to describe the parts of the form that you are looking at, any reactions you might have, and what you are thinking about as you answer my questions.

There are no right or wrong answers, and your comments and opinions will only be used in combination with the feedback that we get from other people.

It will also be fine for you to tell me that, based on the information provided, you don't know the answer to any question I ask. Do you have any questions before we continue?

 - a. Why is it important for that information to be included here?
 - b. How would you use that information?
- 27. How does this form compare with others you've seen when shopping for a prepaid card?

Take away the prototypes.

III. Long-Form Disclosures for Prepaid Accounts (30 minutes)

Use Alternative 1 for half the participants and Alternative 2 for the other half.

Alternative 1 (website): Now I would like you to continue to imagine that you are in the retail store and are still planning to purchase a prepaid card. You have just finished reviewing the information on the form on the back of the prepaid card package that we just discussed. On that form, you saw the website address of the prepaid card company and looked up that website on your smart phone. I'm going to hand you a copy of the information you see on the website [or participant is provided with an actual smart phone], and then I am going to ask you some questions about that information. As you are answering, I would like you to "think aloud" – that is, I want you to describe what you are thinking as you are answering. In particular, let me know if you find anything surprising, interesting, or confusing.

Alternative 2 (hard copy): Now I would like you to imagine that you purchased the prepaid card with the information on the back of the card that we just discussed. After you purchased it, you opened the package and found a document with some information. I am going to hand you a copy of this document and then I am going to ask you some questions about that information. As you are answering, I would like you to “think aloud” – that is, I want you to describe what you are thinking as you are answering. In particular, let me know if you find anything surprising, interesting, or confusing.

Like before, we are interested in both your positive and negative reactions to the designs. Difficulties you may have reflect issues with the designs, not with your skills or abilities. Please keep in mind that I am not testing you or your knowledge. Rather, you are helping us to see how we can improve this experience. It is also fine for you to tell me that, based on the information provided, you don’t know the answer to the question asked.

IV. Payroll Card Accounts and Government Benefit Card Accounts (10 minutes)

Use Alternative 1 (payroll card) for half the participants and Alternative 2 (government benefit card) for the other half.

Alternative 1:

I would like you to imagine that you just got a new job. Your new employer would like to deposit your wages onto a prepaid card, and he has given you this form to review. The form contains information about the prepaid card.

[Please imagine that you are reviewing this form from the comfort of your own home OR Please imagine that you are reviewing this form in your new employer's office as your new employer waits for your response.] [In some cases: Image that you do not have a bank account.]

I am going to ask you some questions about the information on this form. As you are answering, I would like you to "think aloud" – that is, I want you to describe what you are thinking as you are answering. In particular, let me know if you find anything surprising, interesting, or confusing.

*Give participant Model Form for Short Form Disclosures for Payroll Card Accounts (version of A-10(b)). Begin asking the following questions after approximately 5 seconds. During this set of questions, do not ask any probes other than those in the protocol except when necessary to clarify their answer. Do not point their attention to anything on the form, or "assist" them in any way.

Alternative 2: I would like you to imagine that you have applied to receive benefits from the government. For example, maybe you applied for social security or for unemployment insurance payments if you lost your job. You just got this information to review from the government as part of that application process. Similar to the form you just reviewed, it is information about a prepaid card. In this case, it is about receiving your government benefits on a prepaid card that the government would provide to you.

As you are answering, I would like you to “think aloud” – that is, I want you to describe what you are thinking as you are answering. In particular, let me know if you find anything surprising, interesting, or confusing.

*Give participant Model Form for Short Form Disclosures for Government Benefit Accounts (version of A-10(a)). Begin asking the following questions after approximately 5 seconds. During this set of questions, do not ask any probes other than those in the protocol except when necessary to clarify their answer. Do not point their attention to anything on the form, or “assist” them in any way.

Please take a moment to read the sentences at the very top of the form in the shaded box.

1. What do you think these sentences are trying to say?
2. Do you think you would have to accept your [wages/benefits] on a prepaid card? If yes: Why? If no: Why not?
3. How do you feel about receiving your [wages/benefits] on a prepaid card? On this particular card? [if needed, probe for positive/negative/neutral feelings.]
4. Why do you feel this way?
5. Did the information about the fees and other information in the form lead you to feel this way?
6. Do the statements make you feel positive, negative, or neutral about receiving your wages/benefits on a prepaid card?
7. After reading these sentences, do you have any questions? If yes, To whom would you direct your questions?

Take away the prototype.

V. Model Clause for Single-Use Non-Reloadable Card/Reload Packet (5 minutes)

I would like you to imagine again that you are in a retail store, such as a supermarket or drugstore, and are planning to purchase a prepaid card. I’m going to hand you a copy of the information you see on a certain package, and I am going to ask you some questions about that information. As you are answering, I would like you to “think aloud” – that is, I want you to describe what you are thinking as you are answering. In particular, let me know if you find anything surprising, interesting, or confusing.

*Show half the participants a package with the warning clause and half the participants a package without the warning clause. Give participant Model Clause for Single-Use Non-Reloadable Card/Reload Packet Form A. Begin asking the following questions after approximately 5 seconds. During this set of questions, do not ask any probes other than those in the protocol except when necessary to clarify their answer. Do not point their attention to anything on the form, or “assist” them in any way.

1. Have you ever seen a card/product like this before?
2. What is this product? What is it used for?

3. Is this product a prepaid card?
 - a. How do you know that this product [is/is not] a prepaid card?
4. If you were looking to purchase a prepaid card, is this product something you would consider?
5. What does this form tell you about the product?
6. Do you think the card/product provider might charge you any other types of fees that aren't shown here?
7. What do you think would happen if you lost this card/package before using it? What would you do if you lost it?

Take away the prototype.

VI. Short Form Disclosure for Prepaid Accounts Purchased Online (5 minutes)

I would like you to imagine that you are online researching purchasing a prepaid card. I am going to hand you a copy of the information you see on your screen [from/on] the website of one of the cards you are looking into and then I am going to ask you some questions about that information. As you are answering, I would like you to “think aloud” – that is, I want you to describe what you are thinking as you are answering. In particular, let me know if you find anything surprising, interesting, or confusing.

*Give participant Model Form for Prepaid Card Fee for Online Purchases Form B. Begin asking the following questions after approximately 5 seconds. During this set of questions, do not ask any probes other than those in the protocol except when necessary to clarify their answer. Do not point their attention to anything on the form, or “assist” them in any way.

1. Is there a fee or cost for purchasing this card? If yes:
 - a. Why do you think that there [is/is not] a fee for purchasing this card?
 - b. If yes, How much is this fee?
2. If you were buying this card in a store instead of online, how would you know the purchase price?

Take away the prototype.

VII. Short Form Disclosures Prepaid Accounts with Multiple Service Plans (10 Minutes)

Now I would like you to again imagine that you are looking to purchase a new prepaid card in a retail store, such as a supermarket or drugstore. You go into the store and pick up a prepaid card package, and on the back of the package you see some information. Again, I’m going to hand you an example of the information you may see on the back of a package, and then I am going to ask you some questions about that information.

I want to remind you that I'm not testing you or your knowledge. The reason I'm asking the questions is because I want to see how easy it is to read and understand the form on the package. You are free to look at the package when you're answering the questions. It is also fine for you to tell me that based on the information provided, you don't know the answer to one of my questions.

For this section of testing, you will ask participants to (1) examine individually and then compare two different three-column multiple service plan model forms (Model Form for Short Disclosures for Prepaid Accounts With Multiple Service Plans (version of A-10(f) and Form C). Then, you will ask participants to (2) examine a two-column multiple service plan model form (Form D). Some participants may be asked to do both (1) and (2) or only (1) or (2). (NB: Individual interviews will not exceed 90 minutes.)

Give participants Model Form for Short Disclosures for Prepaid Accounts With Multiple Service Plans (version of A-10(f) or Form C. Begin, and give them approximately 30 seconds to review before beginning the following questions.

A-10(f) and Form C testing:

1. Point to the top section of the form, which shows three separate fee plans. This form is a bit different from the other forms that I showed you. Do you see the difference? If yes, What is different about this card?
2. At the top of the form, it says ["pay-as-you-go," "monthly plan," and/or "annual plan"] and there are numbers below each one of these three headings. What do those heading mean? What is the difference between those three numbers?
3. If you got this card, would you be charged a monthly fee?
 - a. If yes: If you did not want to pay a monthly fee, would there be any way for you to avoid having to pay one? If yes, How?
4. Imagine that you signed up for the "pay-as-you-go" plan [or "monthly plan" or "annual plan"].
 - a. If you used this card to buy something at a store, would you be charged a fee? If yes, What would that fee be?
 - b. If you used this card to get money from an ATM, would you be charged a fee under the "pay-as-you-go" plan [or "monthly plan" or "annual plan"]? If yes, What would that fee be?
 - c. Are there differences in other charges for the "pay-as-you-go" plan [or "monthly plan" or "annual plan"]? If yes, Which ones?
5. Overall, is there anything you found confusing or unclear about this form?
6. Is there anything that surprised you?
7. What questions would you have after reading this form?
8. Is there any important information you feel should be included on the form that isn't?

- a. Why is it important for that information to be included here?
 - b. How would you use that information?
9. How does this package compare with others you've seen when shopping for a prepaid card?
10. This card offers three possible fee plans. If you got the card and did not tell the company which of the three plans you wanted, which plan do you think would apply?
- a. Why do you say that?
11. Have you ever seen a card that offers multiple fee plans like this one?
- a. Have you ever used a card that offered multiple fee plans?

Now I am going to hand you an example of the information you may see on the back of another prepaid card package that offers the same multiple payment plan options. Then I am going to ask you some questions about that information.

Give participant whichever form not given for the questions you just asked: Model Form for Short Disclosures for Prepaid Accounts With Multiple Service Plans (version of A-10(f)) OR Form C. Begin, and give them approximately 30 seconds to review before beginning the following questions.

12. At the top of the form, it says ["pay-as-you-go," "monthly plan," and/or "annual plan"] and there are numbers below each one of these three headings. What is the difference between those three numbers?
13. If you got this card, would you be charged a monthly fee?
- a. If yes: If you did not want to pay a monthly fee, would there be any way for you to avoid having to pay one? If yes, how?
14. Imagine that you signed up for the "pay-as-you-go" plan [or "Monthly plan" or "Annual plan"].
- a. If you used this card to buy something at a store, would you be charged a fee? If yes, what would that fee be?
 - b. If you used this card to get money from an ATM, would you be charged a fee under the "pay-as-you-go plan" [or "Monthly plan" or "Annual plan"]? If yes, what would that fee be?
 - c. Are there differences in other charges for the "pay-as-you-go" plan [or "Monthly plan" or "Annual plan"]? If yes, Which ones?
15. Overall, is there anything you found confusing or unclear about this form?
16. Is there anything that surprised you?
17. What questions would you have after reading this form?
18. Is there any important information you feel should be included on the form that isn't?

- a. Why is it important for that information to be included here?
- b. How would you use that information?

Now I'd like to ask you to compare the two forms.

19. Did you like one form better than the other? If yes:

- a. Which form did you like best?
- b. Why did you like that form best? Why didn't you like the other form as much?
- c. Is there anything you would improve on the form you like best?

Take away the prototypes.

Form D testing:

Now I am going to hand you an example of the information you may see on the back of another prepaid card package that offers a different kind of multiple payment plan. Then I am going to ask you some questions about that information.

Give participant Form D. Begin, and give them approximately 30 seconds to review before beginning the following questions.

- 20. At the top of the form, it says [Plan X/Plan Y] and there are numbers below each one of these headings. What do those heading mean? What is the difference between those numbers?
- 21. If you got this card, would you be charged a monthly fee?
 - d. If yes: Under what circumstances would you be charged a monthly fee? If you did not want to pay a monthly fee, would there be any way for you to avoid having to pay one? If yes, How?
- 22. Imagine that you signed up for [Plan X/Plan Y].
 - d. If you used this card to buy something at a store, would you be charged a fee? If yes, What would that fee be?

 - f. Are there differences in other charges for the [service plan option]? If yes, Which ones?
- 23. Overall, is there anything you found confusing or unclear about this form?
- 24. Is there anything that surprised you?
- 25. What questions would you have after reading this form?

26. Is there any important information you feel should be included on the form that isn't?
- Why is it important for that information to be included here?
 - How would you use that information?
27. How does this package compare with others we talked about before?
28. This card offers two possible fee plans. If you got the card and did not tell the prepaid card company which of the two plans you wanted, which plan do you think would apply?
- Why do you say that?

Take away the prototypes.

VIII. False Close (10 minutes)

Interviewer will excuse herself and tell the participant that she is going to speak with the observers to see whether they have any follow-up questions. If observers have follow-up questions or topics to revisit, the remainder of the interview should be spent addressing those questions or topics. Time permitting, the interviewer could also present another version of the form to the participant and ask him or her to compare it to the other forms.

At the conclusion of the interview, the interviewer will thank the participant for their assistance and lead them to the front desk.
