Introduction and Purpose:
You have been asked to take part in a survey as part of a research study. The purpose of the survey is to hear your opinions about HIV-related topics and messages. Research Now and RTI International, a nonprofit research organization in North Carolina, are conducting the survey. The interview is sponsored by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

Procedures:
The survey is about HIV-related information and messages and should take approximately 30 minutes to complete.

Risk/Discomforts and Right to Refuse or Withdraw:
You might feel embarrassed or upset by some questions in this survey. You can decline to answer any questions for any reason. You can stop the survey at any time.

Benefits:
There is no direct benefit to you for being in this interview. However, you may learn more about ways to keep yourself safe and protected in your relationships.

Privacy:
Your responses will be kept private to the extent allowable by law. No identifying information will be included on the survey.

Remuneration:
We will give you points redeemable for merchandise as a token of appreciation. It is your choice to complete the survey. You can choose not to talk about any topic. You can stop taking the survey at any time.

Persons to Contact:
If you have questions about the interview, you can call Curt Coomes at 1-800-334-8571, extension 28348. He can be reached between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, Monday–Friday. If you have questions about your rights as a participant, you can call Wendy Visscher of RTI’s Office of Research Protection toll-free at 1-866-214-2043.
