Section C: Your Preferences for Gulf of Mexico Charter Fishing Trips

We want to know what you think about different types of saltwater charter fishing trips. Please read these instructions carefully before going to the next page.

On each of the following 6 pages you are asked to compare the features of two hypothetical offshore Gulf of Mexico charter fishing trips. You can take up to 6 passengers on these trips and you might catch dolphin fish, mackerel, snapper, grouper, sailfish, billfish, shark or many other types of fish. However, catch is never guaranteed on any charter trip.

The two offshore Gulf of Mexico charter trips presented on each page differ only in length of trip, vessel size, captain's reputation, charter fee (excluding tip), and the fishing regulations in effect at the place and time of trip. The two trips are otherwise identical.

Two forms of fishing regulations are presented for five types of fish that might be caught on each of the charter trips shown:

- "Bag" – The bag limit or the number of the given type of fish that each person is legally allowed to keep on a trip
- "Closed" – There is a closed season in effect for the given type of fish and no one is legally allowed to keep any of this type of fish

Regulations for other species are as in effect in the Gulf of Mexico in 2013 and are the same for each trip. Please note that the regulations presented in the following pages are hypothetical and are unrelated to current fishery management decisions.

Remember that you can contact Dr. David Carter at david.w.carter@noaa.gov or (305) 361-4461 if you have any questions on this survey.

C1 Please compare the features of Gulf of Mexico offshore charter fishing trips A and B and answer the questions below. Please keep in mind that:
