1.0 Applicant Type and Student Count

Student Count

Step 1. Indicate the type of applicant; participation in a consortium or not; and, for BIE-funded schools, the method of student count. Note: For BIE-funded schools that use ISEP, steps 2 and 3 are unnecessary and the system will take you directly to step 4.

Step 2. Identify the number of eligible Indian children according to their eligibility status as indicated on the ED 506 form. Count each child only once according to the categories shown.

Step 3. Provide both the total number of eligible Indian children and the total number of all students (Indian and non-Indian) enrolled in the LEA's schools.

Step 4. Review the data in preparation for certification of your application.

Step 5. The designated Certifying Official user verifies that all the information is accurate and certifies the application.

“Help on Certification” Pop-Up

Help on Certification of EASIE Applications

If an application is not certified by the deadline as published in the Federal Register, it is not transmitted to the U.S. Department of Education and it will not result in funding.

Application for funds under Title VII Indian Education Formula Grants is accomplished through the Electronic Application System for Indian Education (EASIE). EASIE consists of two parts, which are conducted on separate timelines:

- Part I is for applicant type and student count.
- Part II is for information about student performance, project objectives, and budget.

Deadlines are published in the Federal Register and are firm. There are no extensions to the timelines for submitting either Part I or Part II. Only applicants submitting a Part I application by the due date have access to Part II.

For each part, the applicant is responsible for two major functions, both of which must be completed by the deadline for that part:

- Entering all required data.
- Having an authorized official of the applicant agency certify the application for submission to the U.S. Department of Education. By certifying you are verifying the correctness of the application.

In EASIE, users assigned by their agency as "Managing User" or "Certifying Official User" are authorized to certify. Managing Users are also authorized to edit data.

"Certification" serves as the electronic signature for the agency. The certification screen provides a short paragraph specifying what the official is certifying; this varies slightly between Part I and Part II, so certifying officials are advised to read the text.

The certification screen also provides an opportunity to review your agency's application prior to sending it to the Department; it is available in PDF and HTML and you may view, save, and/or print it. After your review of the information you can certify at that time. If the information is not satisfactory, you can make arrangements for further edits to the application—if further edits are needed, be sure to come back before the deadline to do the certification.

If an application is not certified by the deadline as published in the Federal Register, it is not transmitted to the U.S. Department of Education and it will not result in funding.
