- (1) OMB No.: 1901-0302;
- (2) Information Collection Request Title: "DOE Customer Surveys;"
- (3) Type of Request: Three-year extension without changes;

(4) Purpose: The DOE-887, "DOE Customer Surveys," data collection involves contacting users of The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) products or other services, and individuals or businesses in partnership agreements with DOE. These customers are contacted to determine their needs and also the methods by which DOE can improve its products and services to better meet these needs. DOE customer surveys are conducted by EIA primarily using Web-based questionnaires to collect the customer feedback data.

Customer information is needed to make DOE products and services more effective, efficient, and less costly. Data from some customer surveys may also help develop benchmarks to evaluate DOE customer service performance.

Both quantitative and qualitative studies are developed by EIA. Quantitative studies classify and count questionnaire response items and examine the statistical significance of response types in attempting to explain what is observed. EIA conducts quantitative studies in asking questions concerning satisfaction with timeliness, courtesy, accuracy and other particular aspects of the agency's operations. Qualitative studies seek to find patterns in the words and actions of study participants and involve these participants providing detailed descriptions, in their own words. Examples of qualitative studies conducted by EIA include a focus group of customers assembled to discuss a specific set of questions, and a cognitive laboratory experiment that asks volunteer subjects to describe their opinions regarding a product or service;

(5) Annual Estimated Number of Respondents: 50,000;

(6) Annual Estimated Number of Total Responses: 50,000;

(7) Annual Estimated Number of Burden Hours: 12,500 hours (50,000 respondents times 1 response per year, times .25 hours per response);

(8) Annual Estimated Reporting and Recordkeeping Cost Burden: There are not any anticipated reporting or recordkeeping costs for these surveys;

Statutory Authority: Executive Order 12862 § 1, 58 FR 48257 (Sept. 11, 1993).
