Exempt #: 11635

From: Office of Human Subjects Research (OHSR)

Nature of Research Activity:

The NCI in collaboration with the NIH Clinical Center, The Johns Hopkins University School of Nursing, and the Georgetown University Medical Center conducted formative research to gain a better understanding of the current environment around clinical research from the diverse perspective of schools of nursing faculty, nurse employers, and practicing nurses. Results indicated that clinical research is considered to be an important teaching area for baccalaureate nursing students however limited resources exist for supporting
