Peace Corps Volunteer Application

Thank you for your interest in serving as a Peace Corps Volunteer. Applying to become a Volunteer should be a thoughtful process of preparing yourself for a 27-month experience that will be life changing for you, for those close to you, and for the host communities where you will serve. Please complete all of the sections listed below.

This application must be typed or completed in black ink.

Please complete all of the sections listed below.

- Contact and personal information
- Information about your education, work experience, and other relevant activities
- Two essays
- References from your work colleagues and friends

As you complete the application, please keep in mind:

The application can take up to six hours to complete.

In answering a question, provide information that demonstrates you understand what is expected of you during your Peace Corps service.

Answer all questions thoroughly and accurately and provide up-to-date information throughout the application process. We may disqualify applicants if we determine that they have provided misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete information.

The Peace Corps needs Volunteers with specific skills, who are reasonably healthy and can serve where they are needed. Skills for Peace Corps are acquired through education, professional work experience, volunteer experience, and/or activities, and hobbies. Complete questions fully to give yourself the best chance for consideration.

Your essays are used by recruiters in determining the best fit for your Peace Corps experience and, if you are selected, by the country director in your country of service to help determine how best to support you. Take adequate time for the essays as they are important to you and to us.

Your health is an important component of Peace Corps service. Thus, in order to serve as a Volunteer, you must have medical and dental evaluations. You will be required to complete a Health History Form as part of the application process, but independent of the Peace Corps Volunteer Application. If you are selected for an interview and nominated for service, you may receive additional instructions regarding your medical and dental examinations.

What friends and colleagues say about your qualifications to become a Volunteer is an important part of the application. You will be asked to provide three references as part of the application.

In order for the Peace Corps to be able to make appropriate selection and placement decisions, it is critical that applicants provide complete and accurate information throughout the process. You may be disqualified or separated from Peace Corps service if you provide misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete information during the application process. Moreover, any intentionally false statement or intentional omission could be subject to fines and/or imprisonment under 18 U.S.C. § 1001.

Take adequate time to complete your application. Use this time to reflect on the questions asked. Is Peace Corps service right for you at this point in your life? If it is, thoughtfully completing this application will help you prepare for the life-changing experience Peace Corps service can be.

Expectations

Peace Corps Mission and Core Expectations

Please read the Peace Corps Mission, three goals, and ten Core Expectations below and then acknowledge. These expectations frame your commitment to the Peace Corps experience and to the application process you are now beginning.

Your application will not be considered complete until you have accepted the mission and expectations.

The mission of the Peace Corps is to promote world peace and friendship by:

- Helping people of interested countries in meeting their need for trained men and women
- Helping promote a better understanding of Americans on the part of peoples served
- Helping promote a better understanding of other peoples on the part of Americans

In working toward fulfilling the Peace Corps Mission, as a trainee and Volunteer, you are expected to:

1. Prepare your personal and professional life to make a commitment to serve abroad for a full term of 27 months
2. Commit to improving the quality of life of the people with whom you live and work; and, in doing so, share your skills, adapt them, and learn new skills as needed
3. Serve where the Peace Corps asks you to go, under conditions of hardship, if necessary, and with the flexibility needed for effective service
4. Recognize that your successful and sustainable development work is based on the local trust and confidence you build by living in, and respectfully integrating yourself into, your host community and culture
5. Recognize that you are responsible 24 hours a day, 7 days a week for your personal conduct and professional performance
6. Engage with host country partners in a spirit of cooperation, mutual learning and respect
7. Work within the rules and regulations of the Peace Corps and the local and national laws of the country where you serve
8. Exercise judgment and personal responsibility to protect your health, safety, and well-being and that of others
9. Recognize that you will be perceived, in your host country and community, as a representative of the people, cultures, values, and traditions of the United States of America
10. Represent responsibly the people, cultures, values, and traditions of your host country and community to people in the United States both during and following your service

Core Expectation Acknowledgment

- I have read these expectations and understand that I am responsible for meeting these expectations.

Thank you for your interest in serving as a Peace Corps Volunteer. Should you become a Peace Corps Volunteer, you will be undertaking an exciting and life-changing experience. To be invited to serve in the Peace Corps, you must: be a citizen of the United States; be at least 18 years of age; and meet the medical, legal, and security requirements.

Citizenship

Are you a U.S. citizen (by birth or naturalization), or do you expect to become a naturalized citizen in the next 12 months?

- Yes
- No

Please provide your place of birth (City, State, Country): _____

If you are a naturalized citizen, please provide your naturalization number (also known as the Alien Registration Number). For additional information on required legal documentation visit www.peacecorps.gov/legalinfo.

If in the process of becoming a naturalized citizen in the next 12 months, please provide your estimated date of naturalization.

The Peace Corps will not invite you to serve until you have been sworn-in as a naturalized citizen.

Age Requirement

Are you at least 17 years of age? The Peace Corps cannot invite you until you are at least 18 years old.

- Yes
- No

Peace Corps Health Requirements

Health Requirements: Because of the nature of circumstances in countries and communities where Volunteers serve and the medical care available in some places, the Peace Corps may not be able to provide medical support for certain health conditions during the 27 months of service. Other conditions may affect or limit where you can be placed. If you have concerns and would like to review the Medical Information for Applicants section prior to completing the application, please visit: www.peacecorps.gov/medical. The conditions listed in this section may affect your being able to be medically qualified or cause your application to be deferred for a certain period of time. Other conditions may affect or limit where you can serve. However, each applicant is individually assessed in connection with determinations on medical clearance.

After you complete this application, you will be sent a series of medical related questions related to medical clearance.

Marital Status

The Peace Corps will make efforts to place couples who are married or in a same-sex domestic partnership (as similarly defined in 5 CFR §315.608(e)(7)) but please be aware that the opportunities to place couples are more limited than those for individual applicants.

Both you and your spouse/same-sex domestic partner must apply at the same time and qualify for assignments in the same country.

Peace Corps' experience is that couples who have been married for at least a year before they begin service are better able to adapt to the challenges of the Peace Corps than those newly married.

Select your current marital/same-sex domestic partnership status

- Single (never married)
- Married/in a same-sex domestic partnership - planning to serve with a spouse/same-sex domestic partner
- Married – planning to serve without a spouse/same-sex domestic partner
- Divorced or Legally Separated
- Widowed

If you are married, divorced, legally separated and/or widowed or if you are in a same-sex domestic partnership and plan to serve with your same-sex domestic partner, you must complete the corresponding section on this or following pages.

Married/in a same-sex domestic partnership – planning to serve with a spouse/same-sex domestic partner

First name of spouse/same-sex domestic partner _____

Middle name of spouse/same-sex domestic partner _____

Last name of spouse/same-sex domestic partner _____

Social Security Number of spouse/same-sex domestic partner _____

Date of marriage/same-sex domestic partnership _____

Please note that marriage certificates are required for married couples serving together and should be included with your application submission. For same-sex domestic partners serving together, evidence of the domestic partnership must be submitted prior to staging. For additional information on required legal documentation please visit www.peacecorps.gov/legalinfo. In addition, each individual's official Peace Corps documents, such as passport, host country work visa, and plane tickets must all be in the same name. If your marriage plans involve a name change, note that legal procedures to provide confirmations of name changes can take several weeks. Applicants must provide any name change confirmations at least 6 months prior to their listed availability date.

Couples serving as Peace Corps Volunteers face some unique challenges. We believe that the best way to help you prepare for these challenges is to stimulate your thinking concerning various aspects of volunteer service as it relates to couples. Well-adjusted couples here in the United States, whether married or in a same-sex domestic partnership for one year or several decades, will experience new circumstances while living in a different culture that will require adaptation and adjustment. As a means of preparing yourselves to serve as Peace Corps Volunteers, we recommend that you begin to identify and discuss some of the challenges that you may face as a Volunteer couple.

Listed below are some discussion topics that we encourage you to explore together. At the end of this discussion section, please provide written responses to questions 1 through 5. Although we recognize that each Peace Corps experience is unique, these discussion points and subsequent questions address some of the common challenges that couples serving as Peace Corps Volunteers have identified in the past, and will assist you in your preparation for service together.

Discussion Points to Explore:

- As a couple, what do you consider as some of the advantages and disadvantages of serving in the Peace Corps at this time?
- How specifically does each of you deal with stress? How does your spouse's/same-sex domestic partner's reaction to stress affect your relationship?
- What support systems do you currently use when you face difficult situations? Whom will you rely upon during your Peace Corps service for support in addition to your spouse/same-sex domestic partner? What coping mechanisms do you plan to employ to effectively deal with difficult circumstances?
- Identify a challenging situation or event that you have experienced as a couple. How specifically did you handle that particular situation? What did you learn from that experience?
- If a Volunteer becomes pregnant she might be medically separated from Peace Corps service and sent home. How does this policy affect your current commitment to serve 27 months in the Peace Corps?
- Undoubtedly, at various stages of Peace Corps service one of you is going to feel more successful than the other - in learning the language, initiating projects, assimilating into your community, etc. How have you dealt with differing levels of success in the past? How have you supported each other when one of you is doing well and the other is achieving success at a slower pace?
- While each spouse/same-sex domestic partner in a couple has his or her own duties as a Volunteer, many Volunteers have found that couples are often treated as a single unit in their communities, and may be expected to answer for their spouse/same-sex domestic partner in terms of work and social commitments when their spouse/same-sex domestic partner is unavailable. While such expectations and treatment may be completely normal according to the local culture, some Volunteer couples have found such experiences to be very frustrating at times. Please consider how you may cope with such situations as a Volunteer, and as a part of a couple.

It is important that you discuss these issues with your spouse/same-sex domestic partner and prepare to face the many challenges you will experience as a couple during Peace Corps service. We ask each of you individually to provide responses to the following questions.

Please answer the following questions below. Please note that all responses on this page must be 4,000 characters or less.

1. What do you view as the biggest challenges Peace Corps service will present to you as a couple? Have you confronted similar challenges in your relationship in the past? If so, how did you overcome them? If not, what relevant experience have you shared as a couple that will be helpful in meeting these challenges?

2. What are your expectations about serving in the Peace Corps as individuals and as a couple?

3. Couples must be prepared to live and train in separate communities during the three-month pre-service training, as couples typically serve in different assignment areas requiring separate trainings in community-based locations. Additionally, couples must be prepared to endure periods of separation during service due to service-related duties, medical issues, etc. Such periods of separation may be difficult. Please describe how you think you would cope with separation from your spouse/same-sex domestic partner during pre-service training, as well as during your service, while keeping in mind communication options may be extremely limited even within your country of service.

4. Upon completion of pre-service training, couples will be placed in the same community and share a household together. Typically, such households will have 2-3 small rooms, although some may be limited to one small hut or living space. Living quarters may feel cramped at times in comparison to housing standards in the United States. Additionally, many couples will find they share workspace and spend a significant amount of time together while collaborating on community work activities. At times, it may be difficult for individuals in a couple to find adequate time, or space, where they can be alone. Please describe how you think you may cope with living in close quarters with your spouse/same-sex domestic partner, and how you may cope with limited options for spending time alone.

5. Many cultures are characterized by clearly defined gender roles that differ from those in the U.S. How do you believe you will deal with situations that may cause strain on you as an individual, and on your relationship? For example, the credit for a wife's work may be attributed to her husband, or a husband may be teased for washing dishes or clothes, as this is considered "women's work."

Married - Planning to serve without a spouse/same-sex domestic partner

Name of spouse/same-sex domestic partner _____

Please note that if you are a married applicant planning to serve without your spouse/same-sex domestic partner, you will be required to provide additional documentation at the time of application.

Your application will be reviewed to determine your suitability for Peace Corps service. This process is designed to assess an applicant's productive competence, motivation and commitment, emotional maturity, social sensitivity, and cultural awareness. In this context, we must select those candidates who demonstrate the greatest probability for success as Peace Corps Volunteers, including fulfilling their commitment to serve the full two years. Peace Corps service is not for everyone and we have found that those with strong emotional ties to people back home need to think particularly carefully about a 27-month commitment with the Peace Corps. If you have a close personal relationship with someone who is not applying to serve in the Peace Corps, we want to make sure that you have explored the issues below with your spouse/same-sex domestic partner and that you are able to make a firm commitment to the Peace Corps. Before you answer these questions, please discuss them with your spouse/same-sex domestic partner.

You will also be required to submit a notarized letter from your spouse/same-sex domestic partner at the time of your application submission. For additional information on required legal documentation and a sample notarized letter template please visit www.peacecorps.gov/legalinfo.

1. How long have you been married or in a same-sex domestic partnership? Have you ever been a part during your marriage/same-sex domestic partnership? If so, how long? What impact did this have on your marriage/same-sex domestic partnership?

2. What impact do you expect a 27-month separation will have on your marriage/same-sex domestic partnership?

3. How do you expect to communicate with each other? How often, and by what means? How do you plan to make important decisions about your future and family while in the Peace Corps?

4. What are your expectations of seeing each other during the 27 months of Peace Corps service?

Previously Married

If you are divorced or legally separated, you must provide copies of all legal documents related to each divorce or legal separation (including final divorce decree, settlement agreements, spousal and child support agreements, etc.) in English, regardless of when or where, including other countries in which the divorce took place. These documents must be included at the time of application submission. If a former divorced spouse is deceased, it is not necessary to submit a final divorce decree. Drug and Alcohol Information

Peace Corps reserves the right to ask additional questions about drug and alcohol use.

The Peace Corps has a strict policy regarding the use of drugs and alcohol. As a Peace Corps Volunteer, you are responsible for your personal conduct and professional performance 24/7 (Core Expectation 5). You must exercise good judgment and personal responsibility to protect your health, safety, and well-being, and that of others (Core Expectation 8). Please read the following carefully – your personal conduct is critical to your success as a Peace Corps Volunteer.

Drugs

A Volunteer or trainee found to be involved with drugs in a manner not authorized for medical purposes, in any way, in any country, will be administratively separated immediately. The Peace Corps enforces this strict policy because the cultivation, manufacture, traffic, and use of drugs, including marijuana, is illegal in most countries. Additionally, drug involvement by Volunteers and trainees in any country could seriously jeopardize the entire Peace Corps program, as well as the safety and health of Volunteers and trainees.

Alcohol

Peace Corps leaves decisions regarding the use of alcohol to the discretion of the individual Volunteer or trainee. However, the Peace Corps recognizes that excessive use of alcohol may compromise Volunteer or trainee safety and security, lead to behavior that is a discredit to the Peace Corps or the individual, or affect a Volunteer's or trainee's performance in an assignment. Examples of such behavior include but are not limited to: public intoxication, drinking while at the work site, failure to appear for work or training due to intoxication or hangovers, and verbal or physical aggressiveness while under the influence of alcohol. Such inappropriate or unsafe behavior or inability to perform adequately in the assignment may be grounds for disciplinary action, including administrative separation.

Peace Corps may deem an applicant ineligible or unsuitable for Peace Corps service due to the illegal use of drugs, problem drinking, and/or abusive use of alcohol. The terms "problem drinking", "abusive use of alcohol" and their variants include, but are not limited to: binge drinking; feeling that you should cut down on your drinking; experiencing concern from others who think that you drink too much; feeling bad or guilty about your drinking; drinking in the morning to steady your nerves or to get rid of a hangover; or alcohol-related legal incidents.

Peace Corps Drug and Alcohol Policy

Applicants charged with, or convicted of, any drug-related offense are not eligible to have their applications considered for Peace Corps service until one year has passed from the date of the offense, arrest, or conviction, whichever is later.

Applicants charged with, or convicted of, public intoxication, DUI, DWI, or who receive a reduced charge of, or conviction for, reckless driving from an initial charge of DUI or DWI, or who have a similar alcohol-related offense in their legal history, are not eligible to have their application considered for Peace Corps service until one year has passed from the date of the offense, arrest, or conviction, whichever is later. This includes arrests and citations.

Any arrest, citation, or other legal incident related to alcohol or illegal drugs that occur during the application process, including up to the day of departure, will also disqualify an applicant. Any applicant who is disqualified for the above reasons may reapply after one year.

Legal Status and History

The existence of an arrest or conviction record will not automatically exclude an applicant from consideration for service in the Peace Corps. When evaluating an applicant's arrest or conviction information, Peace Corps considers the nature of the offense(s), how long ago the offense(s) occurred, the nature of the position in question, and other relevant facts or indicia of rehabilitation. If an applicant is ultimately rejected for a Peace Corps Volunteer position because of an arrest or conviction in his or her background, the applicant has the opportunity to appeal the decision and/or reapply at a later date.

All Peace Corps invitees must undergo a National Agency Check (NAC) background investigation to help determine legal eligibility for service. The NAC is a criminal background investigation conducted by the United States Office of Personnel Management (OPM). The NAC investigation consists of a search of OPM's Security and Suitability Investigations Index (SII), the Defense Clearance Investigations Index (DCII), a Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI) name check, and a FBI National Criminal History fingerprint check. The NAC investigation will reveal all arrests and convictions regardless of disposition (i.e., suspended sentence, deferred judgment, dismissal, not guilty, reduced charge, mistaken identity, or expungement). Therefore it is required that you report your criminal record information regardless of whether the record in your case has been sealed, expunged, or otherwise stricken from the court record. The NAC background investigation is typically initiated after an applicant is invited to serve in a Peace Corps program. The NAC form and fingerprint charts will be provided at a later date.

If you fail to disclose any required information, including about legal, financial, or drug and alcohol behavior, the Peace Corps may revoke your invitation to serve, or disqualify you from Peace Corps service. Any misleading, inaccurate, or incomplete information may be cause for disqualification or termination. In addition, any intentionally false statement may be subject to fines and/or imprisonment pursuant to 18 U.S.C. Section 1001.

It is the responsibility of the applicant to inform the Peace Corps promptly throughout the application process of any changes in his/her legal status including all arrests, charges, citations, misdemeanors and felonies and ALL drug or alcohol related legal incidents. Do not include traffic violations for which the sentence consisted only of a fine of $300 or less unless the incident involved drugs and/or alcohol.

Please answer the following questions. Answers should include all arrests, charges, citations, misdemeanors and felonies and ALL drug or alcohol related legal incidents. The information provided will be used to help determine your eligibility for Peace Corps service.

1. You may exclude parking tickets and traffic fines of $300 or less.

Intelligence Activities and Organizations

It has been the Peace Corps' longstanding policy to exclude from Peace Corps Volunteer service, in accordance with Peace Corps Manual Section 611, any persons who have engaged in intelligence activity or related work or who have been employed by or connected with an intelligence agency.

The policy is founded on the premise that it is crucial to the Peace Corps in carrying out its mission that there is a complete and total separation of Peace Corps from the intelligence activities of the United States government, both in reality and appearance. Any semblance of a connection between Peace Corps and the intelligence community would seriously compromise the ability of the Peace Corps to develop and maintain the trust and confidence of the people of the host countries. Serious doubts about an applicant's connection with intelligence activities are to be resolved in favor of exclusion.

"Intelligence Activity" includes any activities or specialized training involving or related to the clandestine collection of information, or the analysis or dissemination of such information, intended for the use by the United States government in formulating or implementing political or military policy in regard to other countries. The term "intelligence activity" includes any involvement in covert actions designed to influence events in foreign countries.

Persons currently or formerly employed by the Central Intelligence Agency are permanently ineligible for Peace Corps Volunteer service. Employment with other intelligence agencies may also be disqualifying. In addition, applicants may be disqualified for service because their background or history discloses a substantial connection with an intelligence activity or related work other than through employment. Even family relationships to an employee of an intelligence agency may be considered a disqualifying connection. If you have a family member who works for or has worked for the CIA, you should not complete the intelligence background questionnaire until your family member has consulted with the CIA's Office of General Counsel. Be advised for security reasons, you may only contact your family member concerning your Peace Corps application in person (i.e. not by email, phone, social networking, or any other means that is not in person).

Depending upon the nature of an applicant's involvement in or relationship to intelligence activities or agencies, the duration of disqualification may range from a permanent disqualification, disqualification up to ten years, or disqualification for ten years or more. Applicants are also advised that service as a Peace Corps Volunteer may result in disqualification from employment with intelligence agencies of the U.S. Government for periods following service as a Volunteer.

In some cases, employment or association with certain intelligence activities or agencies will result in Peace Corps instructing you to contact those agencies who will coordinate with Peace Corps, as necessary and appropriate, to assist Peace Corps in rendering a final decision on your application.

Based upon the preceding, please answer the following question:

Have you or a family member ever been employed by or connected with an intelligence agency, or engaged in intelligence activity or related work?

- Yes
- No

If you indicated that either you or a family member has been employed by or connected to an intelligence agency, or engaged in intelligence activity or related work, a representative from your recruiting office will contact you after your application is submitted for additional information to determine if you are eligible to become a Peace Corps Volunteer.

Are you currently applying for employment with an intelligence agency or other organization associated with intelligence activities?

- Yes
- No

If yes, you will be required to withdraw all applications for employment with intelligence agencies after accepting an invitation to serve in the Peace Corps and supply the Peace Corps with a copy of the letter to each agency requesting the withdrawal of your application. More information regarding this will be provided at a later date.

Skills and Experience

Employment History

Your Peace Corps service is a commitment to improving the quality of life of the people with whom you live and work and, in doing so, you will share your skills, adapt them, and learn new skills as needed (Core Expectation 2). Master's International

The Master's International Program offers a unique opportunity to combine Peace Corps service with a Master's Degree program. Prospective students apply separately to Peace Corps and to a participating graduate school. Once accepted by both, students will study on campus, usually for one year, and then spend the next two years earning academic credit while working overseas in a related Peace Corps project. Most schools provide students in this program with opportunities for research or teaching assistantships, scholarships while on campus or tuition waivers for the credits earned while serving in the Peace Corps.

For additional information about Master's International visit www.peacecorps.gov/gradschool.

Please note that you must be accepted by the Master's International school before you can submit your application for Peace Corps service.

Have you applied and been accepted to a Master's International program?

- Yes,
- No

Please indicate the school and program _____

Please submit your acceptance letter as an attachment at the time of application submission.

Your application is not complete without this acceptance letter.

Community and Volunteer Activities

Peace Corps assignments require applicants to have leadership ability, creativity, initiative, flexibility, and a willingness to work with others. You will engage with host country partners in a spirit of cooperation and mutual learning and respect (Core Expectation 6) and respectfully integrate yourself into your host community and culture (Core Expectation 4). Please describe your community, volunteer, or organizational experience that demonstrate the following skills or abilities:

- *Initiating or carrying out activities
- *Planning activities involving others
- *Organizing others to participate in activities or to perform tasks
- *Motivating others to get and stay involved
- *Leading, supervising, or managing others

In addition, many applicants have gained technical or subject skills relevant to Peace Corps assignments through community and volunteer activities. You may have gained other skills not normally thought of as relevant to the Peace Corps. Thus, it is important to be as complete as possible in describing your activities. List your most recent activities first. Do not include experiences already listed in your employment history.

Interest and Availability

Assignment and Regional Interests

How and where the Peace Corps assigns Volunteers is based largely on matching the educational and work experience of applicants with the kinds of skills and projects for which countries have requested assistance. As a result, the Peace Corps cannot guarantee placement in any specific region or country. Our priority is to place an applicant where his or her skills are most needed, which may be under conditions of hardship (Core Expectation 3). Applicants who are flexible about where they will go and what they will do are therefore more competitive.

The Peace Corps' mission supports the needs of communities and honors the request of host countries in providing Volunteers where they are needed most. We review your potential skill areas, where those skills are needed, your health status, where noted concerns can best be accommodated, and the relationship between your availability for service and when groups of trainees are beginning service. Your regional interest, if any, is a consideration only when all other conditions are met.

Please indicate the work assignments in which you have an interest.

- Agriculture
- Environment
- Business
- Information and Communication Technology
- Education
- Health
- Youth Work and Community Development
- Skilled Trades

Visit the Peace Corps website at www.peacecorps.gov/assignments for more information about work assignments.

Which regions, if any, would you be unwilling to serve in as a Peace Corps Volunteer?

- Open to serve in all regions
- Africa
- Asia
- Caribbean
- Central / South America
- Central Asia
- Eastern / Central Europe
- North Africa / Middle East
- Pacific Islands

Briefly explain why you are unwilling to serve in these regions.

The Peace Corps does not generally place Volunteers in countries where they may have family or other potential connections or relationships that could create distractions or conflicts of interest. Please list all Peace Corps countries where you have family members or such other connections.

Earliest Availability

What is the earliest date you can be available for Peace Corps service? You will be considered for assignments beginning after this date. You must notify your recruiter if this date changes.

Candidates should apply no more than one year prior to their date of availability, with the exception of Master's International candidates, whose availability is determined by their individual academic program.

References

References

We require three letters of recommendation. Please notify your references as soon as you start your application. Your references will only be contacted if you pass the initial screening. We suggest that you encourage your references to respond within two weeks of receiving the Peace Corps' request.

Recommendations should be from each of the following individuals:

- A current or previous employment supervisor
- A current or previous volunteer work supervisor
- A close friend who has known you for at least two years

You will not be considered for Peace Corps service without these three recommendations. If you do not have a worksupervisor, please use another previous employment supervisor or a professor from your academic department. If you do not have a volunteer supervisor, please substitute a previous job supervisor or a professor from your academic department. You will be asked to provide additional information concerning substitute references. Recommendations will not be accepted from family members or persons with whom you are romantically involved. If you have any questions regarding appropriate references, please contact your local regional recruiting office by calling 1.800.424.8580 and choosing option 1.

We prefer online submission of recommendations as it streamlines the application process. However, if one or more of your recommendation providers is unable to complete the online form, please visit www.peacecorps.gov/references to download a paper reference or contact your regional recruiting office and request that paper copies of the reference form be mailed to you. You must then print out the reference form and send it to your recommender. The completed paper reference form must be placed in a sealed envelope with the recommender's signature across the seal, and returned to you. You must then provide the completed reference(s) to your regional recruiting office.

Please note:

- Your recommendations will automatically be matched to your application upon submission.
- To complete the recommendation online, a recommendation provider must have a valid email address.
- Returned Peace Corps Volunteers who completed or ended service in the last five years are required to submit an additional reference from a Peace Corps staff person from their country of service.

Essay Questions

Essays

The two essay questions below will provide the Peace Corps with additional information and insights that will be used to assess your suitability for Peace Corps service. If you are invited to serve as a Peace Corps Volunteer, your essays may be shared with staff in your country of service.

Please read both questions below and provide written responses between 250-500 words each.

Both essays are mandatory. Your application will not be considered without them.

Motivation Statement

Peace Corps service presents major physical, emotional, and intellectual challenges. You have provided information on how you qualify for Peace Corps service elsewhere in the application. In the space below, please provide a statement (between 250-500 words) that includes:

- * Your reasons for wanting to serve as a Peace Corps Volunteer; and
- * How these reasons are related to your past experience and life goals.
- * How you expect to satisfy the Peace Corps 10 Core Expectations (rather than addressing all 10 expectations, please be specific about which expectations you anticipate to find most challenging and how you plan to overcome these challenges).

Cross Cultural Essay

Your success as a Peace Corps Volunteer is based on the trust and confidence you build by living in, and respectfully integrating yourself into, your host community and culture (Core Expectation 4). Describe in between 250-500 words an experience you have had living or working in a social or cultural environment different from your own. What specific challenges did you face concerning trust, confidence, and/or integration? What did you learn from this experience that you will bring with you to your Peace Corps service?
