I am not for the EOBR'S as there will be loop holes where any company will be able to harass drivers and O/O's. It will not help with fatigue or help decrease truck crashes. More penalties need to be put on the general motoring public for their bad driving witch causes 87% of all truck crashes not more reg. on the trucking industry. I have been driving for 33 years and have a clean record thank God. Using EOBR's Means we need babysitters and I am to old for them. I don't need any company noising into my personal life and or harassing me for how I do my job. With every law that is made there are a ton of loop holes that can be used.
