Sure! I'll leave a note on this:). In a phone call with a former employer I heard this, "well, I'm looking at your log and I see you're stopping frequently...". I know where that call was heading. Elogs shouldn't be reviewed by any fleet, driver or company manager. It should be contained entirely with an independent agency. If I'm too tired to get it there on time, that's too bad. There isn't a single load out there that's worth my life.
