

2013 CENSUS OF AQUACULTURE

The National Agricultural Statistics Service is conducting the 2013 Census of Aquaculture. This survey is the only comprehensive source of information on the aquaculture industry in the United States.

Last conducted nearly a decade ago, this census serves as the baseline for many decisions involving the sustainability and growth of the U.S. aquaculture sector. The results will also help aquaculture organizations assess the current state of this critical sector of U.S. economy.
