Parent or Guardian Permission for Youth Interview Evaluation of the Public Education Campaign on Teen Tobacco (ExPECTT)

Evaluation of the Public Education Campaign on Teen Tobacco (ExPECTT) is designed to collect data from youth about their experiences with tobacco products, media use, as well as some questions about your background. Follow-up surveys will be conducted to assess awareness of the campaigns and receptivity to campaign messages.

Selection of Youth

A random sample of household addresses was selected throughout the United States. A professional RTI interviewer will visit each sampled address to ask a few questions about whether any eligible youth live in the household. One or possibly two eligible children in your household might be asked to voluntarily participate in the survey. We must have permission from a parent before we talk with the child. At that point, your child may choose whether or not to participate in the study. Since the survey is based on a random sample, you will represent thousands of other United States residents.

Purpose of the Youth Interview

We want to interview your child about their views and experiences with tobacco use. The child's answers combined with the answers of other youth in the study will improve our understanding of how public education campaigns affect youths' attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors toward tobacco use.

Types of Questions for Youth

The interview with your child will last about 30-40 minutes, depending on their responses. Youth will be asked about their media use, as well as their attitudes and beliefs towards tobacco use. The interviewer will ask the first few questions and then youth respondents will answer questions directly into a laptop computer. The youth interviews will be completed in a part of their household that allows them to answer in private.

Voluntary Participation

Your child's participation in this study is also completely voluntary. He or she can refuse to answer any and all questions. Your child has the right to stop the interview at any time.

Risks

There are no physical risks to your child from participating in this interview. It is possible that some questions might make your child mildly uncomfortable, depending on their responses.

Benefits

There are no direct benefits to your child from answering our questions. However, he or she will be contributing to important research related to tobacco use among youth. The information youth provide will also help researchers and policy makers understand the impact and effectiveness of public education activities aimed at reducing tobacco-related death and disease.

Future Contacts

Follow-up surveys are planned in order to help us better understand how youth aged 11 to 16 begin using tobacco, how much and what kinds of tobacco they use, and whether they think about quitting tobacco use. Each of these additional interviews will also be completely voluntary.

Privacy

Your answers will be entered into a computer and labeled with a case identification number. Your name and that of your child will not be reported with any information your child provides. Information your child provides will be combined with answers of many others and reported in a summary form. To protect the privacy of both you and your child, neither of you will know the other's interview answers. All staff involved in this research are committed to privacy and have signed a Privacy Pledge. Information will be kept private to the fullest extent allowable by law

Our talk today will last between 30 to 40 minutes, depending on your responses. We may contact you again in the future. It is up to you to decide if you would like to take any future survey.

You will enter your responses to the questions into a portable computer. Your name will be kept private. We are using a laptop quality control (QC) system. The system runs on the computer and may record what you and I say to each other during parts of the interview. Neither you or I will know when the computer is recording what we say. The recording will be reviewed by people at RTI to monitor my work. The recordings will only be used for those purposes, and will be kept private to the fullest extent allowable by law. The files will be destroyed after they have been used to review my work. Those project staff who listen to the recording will know who I am, but will not know who you are. Is it alright with you if this QC system runs during this interview?

Thank you for taking time to complete this survey.
