

Greetings,

We would like to invite you to participate in a Census Bureau research study that will inform how we conduct the 2020 Census. This study should take about five minutes to complete.

To participate in this study you must use a smartphone or another mobile device like a tablet (or other GPS enabled device). Please do not use a desktop or laptop computer for this study.

If you do not have a mobile device or if your mobile device is not available, then you can disregard this research study invitation. Finally, it is best to answer this survey when you are at your home address.

To participate in the study, please open this e-mail on your mobile device and then tap the link below.
