You have been invited to take part in the National Survey of Community-Based Policy and Environmental Supports for Healthy Eating and Active Living (CBS HEAL Survey), a survey sponsored by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The national study seeks to gather information on the existence of certain policies, standards, and practices enacted or implemented by local governments that promote more healthful eating and physical activity for residents.

You were identified as the person best able to address questions about the policies enacted by your local government. Your participation in this study will involve responding to a Web-based questionnaire that will take approximately 30 minutes to complete.

Your participation is voluntary and you may stop participating at any time. You have the right to refuse to answer any question. Your participation will be treated in a secure manner and will not be disclosed, unless required by law. The information you give us will be combined with the responses of participants in other communities in a summary report. CDC will provide your local government with a brief summary report that compares the findings from your community with those of other communities in the study. There are no risks or benefits to you for participating.

If you have any questions about the study, please call Dr. Deborah Galuska of CDC at 770-488-6017 or Dr. Erika Gordon of ICF International at 1-800-XXX-XXXX. The Institutional Review Board at ICF International has determined this study to be exempt from the human subjects review process. If you have any questions about your rights as a study participant, you can call XXXXXX of CDC at 1-800-XXX-XXXX.

Thank you.

Your Questionnaires

You have been identified as the most knowledgeable respondent in your community in the content area(s) listed below. To enter the questionnaire and begin responding, click on the questionnaire title. If you have been identified to respond to more than one content area, you may complete the questionnaires in any order.

- Use your mouse to click on the best response option based on what you know about your community's programs and practices.
- Do not use the browser's back button to navigate through the questionnaire. Please use the arrows at the bottom of each page.
- You will be automatically logged out after 40 minutes of inactivity. You may log back in using the same access code to continue completing the questionnaire, starting from the place where you left off.
- Your answers will automatically be saved as you advance through the questionnaire.
- In some places in the questionnaire, you will see this icon: . This indicates a help statement. The purpose of a help statement is to further clarify a word or phrase by providing a definition or other clarification.
- Unless otherwise indicated by the words "MARK ALL THAT APPLY," select only one answer choice for a given question. In the event you are asked to mark all that apply, you may select as many answer choices as are appropriate for the question.
- You may notice that the numbering of the questions may not progress sequentially as you advance through the questionnaire. This is due to skip patterns resulting from previous answer choices. This is intentional, and requires no action or resolution on your part.
- On questions in which a response option is chosen that says "Specify," you will be given the opportunity to type into a text field. Please use this field to indicate an answer choice that was not captured by existing answer choices.

If you need to log out of the questionnaire before you have fully completed it, you will be returned to your stopping point when you log back in with your access code.

Survey Introduction and Special Instructions

Communitywide Planning Efforts for Healthy Eating and Active Living

You are about to start the section for Communitywide Planning Efforts for Healthy Eating and Active Living.

Special Instructions

Healthy eating and active living are important behaviors for the prevention of obesity and other chronic diseases such as heart disease, diabetes, and cancer. The ability to make healthy choices is influenced by one's surroundings—where one lives, works, shops, and plays. Policies, standards, and practices at local levels can influence these surroundings to support healthy eating and active living. To better understand these policies, standards, and practices the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is conducting this survey of local governments across the Nation.

This survey asks about select policies, standards, and practices of the local government in your community. In this survey, local government generally refers to a municipality, town, or township but not to a county or State. For the purposes of this survey, policies and standards are any written codes or standards, including regulations, ordinances, organizational policy, resolutions, and formal rules.

On average, it will take you 30 minutes to complete the survey. You may need to consult with another person to provide the most accurate and complete information on your local government's policies and standards concerning recreational spaces, nutritional standards, or on support for maternity leave. For example, a tax office or procurement department representative, a parks and recreation department representative, or a human resources representative may be consulted for the survey.

Completing the survey is voluntary. CDC may choose to link the data collected in this survey with other U.S. Census data to gain a better understanding of the prevalence of certain types of policies, standards, and practices within communities. While no specific respondent to the questionnaire will ever be identified, this linking of data may identify communities.
