

Intro Spiel

My name is _____ and I am an economist/statistician with the U.S. Department of Labor. We are presently conducting a test study of occupational requirements that is designed to measure the education, experience, environmental conditions, and physical demands of jobs in today's economy. The data I collect is being gathered at the request of the Social Security Administration for potential use in the disability determination process. The test data will be used for statistical purposes only and kept in the strictest of confidence. Your company is part of our sample so I'm calling to see if you would be willing to participate and to set up a time to meet with you in person / engage via phone or email to discuss the characteristics of a few randomly selected jobs at your company.
