f. Authority to collect information. A Federal law, Executive Order of the President (EO), or DoD requirement must authorize the collection and maintenance of a system of records.

(1) If this system has a Privacy Act SORN, the authorities in this PIA and the existing Privacy Act SORN should be the same.

(2) Cite the authority for this DoD information system or electronic collection to collect, use, maintain and/or disseminate PII. (If multiple authorities are cited, provide all that apply.)

(a) Whenever possible, cite the specific provisions of the statute and/or EO that authorizes the operation of the system and the collection of PII.

(b) If a specific statute or EO does not exist, determine if an indirect statutory authority can be cited. An indirect authority may be cited if the authority requires the operation or administration of a program, the execution of which will require the collection and maintenance of a system of records.

(c) DoD Components can use their general statutory grants of authority ("internal housekeeping") as the primary authority. The requirement, directive, or instruction implementing the statute within the DoD Component should be identified.

g. Summary of DoD information system or electronic collection. Answers to these questions should be consistent with security guidelines for release of information to the public.

(1) Describe the purpose of this DoD information system or electronic collection and briefly describe the types of personal information about individuals collected in the system.

This DLA Physical Access Control System is used at DLA Distribution, San Joaquin, California, DLA Distribution, Susquehanna, Pennsylvania, and DLA Land and Maritime, Columbus, Ohio. The system allows DLA's Security Management Branch to issue employees and visitors local identification badges for security purposes which permit DLA to maintain accountability of employees and visitors as well as serve as the access control format for entry into either of these DLA facilities. Visitors include members of the general public, Department of Defense (DoD) employees, military, contract personnel, and retired military.

The system collects the following personal information to create a physical access badge: individual's name, home address (City, State, and zip code), home telephone number, social security number, date of birth, place of birth, gender, legal status, biometric data (hair color, eye color and height) and driver's license number (with state).

(2) Briefly describe the privacy risks associated with the PII collected and how these risks are addressed to safeguard privacy.

Several privacy risks associated with PII collection were identified for the Physical Access Control System: (1) unauthorized access (compromise of data resulting in identity theft would be devastating and threaten DLA's reputation), (2) inaccurate information can affect management decisions, an individual's reputation, etc., and (3) unauthorized disclosure can result in identity theft.

In response to the risk that unauthorized access to the PII data contained in Physical Access Control System's records, the system is protected under the the defense-in-depth approach being taken by DLA to protect this data. The system application is on an internal DLA network. Physical, technical, and procedural safeguards are employed in series to ensure only those personnel that have a validated need-to-know may access this sensitive information.

In response to the risk presented by unauthorized disclosure of data within the system records, DLA is taking a multi-pronged approach to mitigating this concern involving 1) Required (for new hires and all personnel at least annually) and repetitive security and privacy training as needed; 2) Requirement to execute formal nondisclosure agreements by any and all parties with direct system access; and 3) commitment by management to enforce stated penalties for not complying with Privacy Act requirements.

All DLA employees are required to take an Information Assurance Awareness and Privacy Act Training refresher course annually. Training emphasizes the importance of protecting personal information from loss, theft, and compromise.

Individuals are also provided with the consequences of not providing their personal data i.e., denied access to the DLA installation, building, and/or facility. The forms used are DLA Form 1815, DSCC 2310-1 and DSCC-2310-2, or DSCC 2313 depending on the DLA facility being accessed. A standardized form for all DLA components is currently being developed.

(2) If "No," state the reason why individuals cannot object.
