These surveys are being conducted by researchers at the National Human Genome Research Institute of the National Institutes of Health.

The surveys are being conducted to help researchers understand how people think and feel about issues related to genetics and health. You may respond to whichever survey or surveys you choose. You may complete as many or as few of the surveys as you wish.

Your response to the surveys is completely voluntary. You may end your participation at any time. Any reports or publications based on this research will use only group data and will not identify you individually. We will not store any personally identifying information within the survey. Your responses will remain secure to the extent permitted by law. The privacy and confidentiality of all collected information will be maintained at all times during the study process.
