Instructions for completing HUD-52860-F:

Eminent domain is an exercise of the power of a government or “quasi-government” body (“Taking Body”) to take property for a public use upon just compensation to the owner. Takings under eminent domain are exempt from HUD regulations at 24 CFR 970.3(b)(8), which implements Section 18 of the Act. However, HUD may consent to an agreement between a PHA and a Taking Body on a case-by-case basis if the interests of public housing residents, PHAs, and HUD are adequately protected.

For guidance on HUD policy related to the takings of public housing property by eminent domain, including guidance on the documentation and evidence that HUD is requiring in this addendum and application, see the applicable HUD Notice on eminent domain takings of public housing property.
